U. S. BILLIONS FOR BRITAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—At least $2,500,000,000 worth of war supplies would be necessary, an authoritative source predicted today, to meet Great Britain's needs under any "lease-lend" program of American assistance.

UNDER FIRE—Photo, taken during action between the British and Italian fleets off Sardinia, shows a trail of bombs dropping across the wake of what appears to be an aircraft carrier (arrow). The British reported a heavy bombardment which momentarily hid an aircraft carrier from view but did no damage.

RAF Drives Italians 150 Miles Into Libya

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 18 (AP)—Italian troops were reported today by the British Royal Air Force to be falling back toward Derna, 150 miles within Libya, harassed by bombs and machine guns on the march.

"Reconnaissance flights showed the enemy retreating to Derna," the RAF communique said. "Our fighters machine-gunned retreating troops between Bardia and Tobruk."

Earlier reports from the western desert indicated that Bardia, Italy's main coastal base in the Libyan frontier region, had been isolated by British armored units to the west, and fresh troops rolling up before the town on the east.

Apparently the line had been closed also on the south.

RAF BOMBS BARDIA

For any retreat toward Derna the Italians had to pass through or near Tobruk, roughly half the 150-mile distance between Bardia. British airmen struck heavily at the Bardia and Derna ends of the Italian line.

"Heavy rain in the western desert yesterday restricted air activity considerably," the communique said. "Nevertheless, aircraft of the RAF continued to attack Bardia both during the day and the previous night."

This estimate, he said, was over and above the $2,000,000,000 worth of munitions and material for which Britain already has placed orders in this country on a "cash-and-carry" basis.

The official, a qualified specialist, advanced his estimates after President Roosevelt had outlined a tentative plan for a "lend-lease" policy of assistance which, in effect, would create here a veritable arsenal for the British Empire—without dollar sign limitations.

Britain's military needs, this official said, probably would constitute only one part of the broad question of assistance involved.

Assuming a British victory in the end, he said it was his belief that from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 in addition would be necessary to rehabilitate the besieged, bomb-wrecked country when peace came.

SEE MORE ORDERS

To complete the defeat of what he termed Hitlerism and to sustain democracy the official asserted it would be necessary to help Britain back to her feet.

The official did not specify how long a period of war he thought the minimum of $2,500,000,000 worth of supplies would cover. British sources, however, have mentioned both 1942 and 1943 as the year in which they hope for a decision if they continue to hold their own.

Britain's present orders here call for some 2000 tanks, more than 10,000 planes, and great quantities of small arms ammunition, explosives and other war supplies. The minimum estimate presumably would cover slightly larger quantities.

ANTICIPATED NEEDS

The existing orders were understood to represent most of Britain's anticipated needs during 1941. The British purchasing mission here is desirous to contract for more planes, boats and munitions, but British officials have advised Secretary Morgenthau, it was revealed yesterday, that the point had been reached where financial assistance was necessary before more orders could be placed.

Administration leaders predicted legislation would be sought early in the 1941 session of Congress to implement the President's plan. Senator Minton (D.) of Indiana, acting majority leader, told reporters that additional appropriations would be necessary at once. He

U-BOATS TORPEDO 2 TANKERS, LINER

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (AP)—Submarines unloosed another attack against British-controlled shipping in the north Atlantic today, torpedoing two large tankers and another steamer at two-hour intervals several hundred miles west of the Hebrides.

At 9:40 a. m. the 10,746-ton Dutch tanker Pendrecht reported she had been torpedoed. Two hours later the Norwegian tanker Dalton radioed a similar report. At 1:35 p. m. came still another message of a torpedo attack, this time from the Napier Star, 12,156 tons.

All the reports were heard by Mackay Radio. The first two ships said they were about 350 miles west of the Hebrides; the Napier Star gave her position as about 250 miles farther west.

Owned by the Blue Star line of London, the Napier Star was built in 1927. The maritime register (Editor's Note: When Hitler promised England a "blood bath" and followed with his war from the air in his efforts to terrorize the people, he failed to reckon with the British spirit of "carry on." This is strikingly evidenced in Milo M. Thompson's stories of life in England today. Read the following and do not miss the other articles which will appear daily in the Boston Evening American.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (AP)—The present and eternity are no further apart in London than a snap of the fingers.

Nevertheless, narrow escapes are only something to be discussed lazily with the walnuts and the wine, not such a shuddering horror as most Americans suppose.

Only the bores bother you with stories of their own private and particular bombs, now that most of us have had our own bomb experience.

A bombing becomes interesting only when there is some definite peak. And some narrow escapes which have an element of the supernatural and unexplainable about them also are worth mentioning.

For instance: There's one manager of an American company in London who rose up from bed in the dead of night, shook his wife and cried:

"We must get out of here!" He dragged the poor protesting woman through the door and down the corridor, she supposing all the time that he was the victim of a nightmare. At the corridor's turning he threw her down and threw himself across her protectively.

TERRIFIC BLAST

There came a terrific explosion. His body became inert.

She felt liquid and supposed the explosion had burst a pipe. Suddenly she realized it was his blood and struggled out, screaming. She dragged him to the street and help came. He was rushed to a hospital where they attended to a slashed artery and saved him from bleeding to death. Up to my departure, they were still taking bits of glass out of his body.

He is quite conscious, however, and recovering. But he cannot explain what happened. He heard no sound. He says he awoke with a suffocating feeling and the urge to get away. That was all. The bomb demolished their bedroom.

I know of another case in which a dog suddenly, in what seemed silence, began barking and pulling his master out of a room. A few moments later, the room was wrecked. The master was safe.

One accepts these things as a gift from Providence.

AUTHOR'S OWN CASE

My own case is one in point. My wife and I, with Hugh Wagon and Joe Wurzel, of the Associated Press, were returning to the heart of the city from a bit of suburban

20,000 Italians From Egypt to Be Prisoners in India

BOMBAY, India, Dec. 18 (AP)—Interment camps were reported today to have been prepared in India for at least 20,000 Italian prisoners captured in Egypt.

Back to his home came this London civilian as Nazi air raid ended . . . and he found the bedroom he left for a shelter in ruins. However, he enjoys drink.

New York City Police Chase Legro Suspect's Car in Vain

Through streets of New York's East Side today police radio cars roared in a wild chase after a driver in a car reported to be that rented by George Corey, hunted alleged triangle-slayer of a Nantasket bridegroom.

$25 For Clue to Missing Hull Killing Suspect, Car

TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS FOR VIGILANCE!

Have you seen this man? Have you seen this car?

If so, immediately call the City Editor of the Boston Evening American or Daily Record at Liberty 4000.

The $25 will be paid by the Record-American for exclusive information leading to the location of the sought car or man, preferably both.

The man is George Corey of Phelps st., Salem, wanted by authorities for questioning in the Nantasket slaying of Kenneth S. Legro, former Dartmouth athlete.

Corey is 27 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall and weighs between 185 and 200 pounds. When last seen he wore a dark pencil-stripe suit, gray topcoat and gray soft hat and was driving a 1940 black Chevrolet sedan, Mass. registration 599,639.

This car was rented from the Hawthorne Garage of Salem, although it is registered to the Motor Mart Garage in Boston.

If you have seen this man or this car, telephone the City Editor of the Boston Evening American or Daily Record immediately.

Boston's Yule Mailing Lags

Greater Bostonians had better get moving if they expect to have Christmas cards and packages delivered on time, Postmaster Peter F. Tague warned today in no uncertain terms.

"We're days behind last year's record right now," he declared. "There are only 100 men working in 27 cities and towns of the Boston postal district where 1800 were at work last December."

"The extra men are ready to work, but the mail isn't in. If everyone keeps this up, the congestion on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday will make thousands of parcels and cards late for Christmas."

Phillips Going Back To Rome Post Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Secretary Hull announced today that United States Ambassador William Phillips would return soon to his post at Rome.

The chase came only a dozen hours after Corey was reportedly seen in a liquor store in Danielson, Ct., where he bought whiskey and where, according to the proprietor, he appeared to have been drinking.

The New York chase staged by police began when a breathless pedestrian reported that he had seen the car of Corey, who now is charged formally with the ambush-killing of Kenneth S. Legro, 30-year-old Dartmouth honor graduate and athlete.

This New York pedestrian said he had spotted the wanted car after reading the number of the car in a Manhattan newspaper.

Although police went into immediate action after the telephone call, they failed to overtake the machine.

CLUE IN CONNECTICUT

The report to the Boston Evening American, earlier today, that Corey had appeared in the Danielson liquor store last night indicated that the Salem man was fleeing toward New York and possibly the South.

Before this information was received, authorities were of the belief that when they did find the frustrated lover-killer in a race for the hand of beautiful Mrs. Marie Chenery Legro of Peabody—they would find him dead, a suicide.

Corey's visit to the liquor store at 26 Main st., Danielson, was made known by proprietor Stanley Czupryna, who said that his own identification was corroborated by two friends who had been in the shop at the same time.

Not until after the stranger had gone, however, did they see newspaper clippings carrying Corey's photograph and description and the fact that he was wanted in the beach cottage slaying. Then the liquor dealer and his friends were shocked, Czupryna declared.

BOUGHT LIQUOR

"It was Corey, all right," he said. "I'd know him a mile away."

"He came into the store about 9:45 Tuesday night. He was feeling pretty good—not drunk but feeling good. He priced some whiskey and then tried to knock off on the floor."

"I told him no, that the price was as low as I could make it and I couldn't go any lower. He didn't argue about it or anything like that—just asked."

"He took the bottle but he didn't want it in his pocket. He just shoved it in his pocket."

"In the few minutes he was in the store he overheard my friends talking about the Greek war and he mentioned that he was a Greek and had just been eating in a Greek restaurant. But he didn't look Greek to me. He looked more like a Syrian."

"If we'd only seen the papers before he came in I'd have known him right off. But I'd know him now a mile away."

The liquor store proprietor said he did not know if the man drove up in a car.

GOVERNOR NAMES NEW COMPTROLLER

Gov. Saltonstall sprung another surprise today in a list of 11 appointments sent to the executive council by displacing State Comptroller George E. Murphy (D.), who had held the post for eight years.

Given the nomination for the comptrollership, which includes membership on the state board of administration and finances, was Walter S. Morgan (R.) of Sharon. The position pays $5500 a year.

Morgan, once appointed by ex-Gov. Fuller, had been comptroller from 1928-32. Murphy was appointed by ex-Gov. Ely and was considered to have made an outstanding record.

MANY CONFIRMED

Before today's nominations were considered the council confirmed all of those made last week.

Others in addition to the Morgan appointment were:

Ralph H. Osborn, West Roxbury, a director of marine fisheries, to replace Ernest W. Barnes, who resigned. This post pays $5000 annually.

William Silverman, Newton Center, to the commission on minimum wages, replacing Michael J. O'Donnell, whose term expired.

Christopher C. Mitchell, Jr., Boston, reappointed as public administrator.

Thomas H. Keeley, Monson, medical examiner for the first Hampden district, reappointed.

Harry M. Lewis, Malden, public administrator in place of Daniel L. Lucey, whose term expired.

SEVERAL REAPPOINTED

Charles A. Edwards, Taunton, medical examiner for the Second Bristol District. Reappointed.

Charles Ross, Boston, chairman of the Salem and Beverly Water Supply boards. Reappointed.

Nathaniel P. Reed, Lynn, medical examiner for the 9th Essex district. Reappointed.

Connie H. King, Huxbury, associate medical examiner for the 34 Plymouth district. Reappointed.

Edward H. Ewing, Stoughton, associate medical examiner for the 5th Norfolk district. Reappointed.

GUARD PLACED ON BALLOTS IN PEABODY ONE-VOTE WIN

Police officers stood on guard at Peabody City Hall today to prevent further rioting while election officials continued counting the results of the city's mayoralty battle, in which Mayor Joseph B. O'Keefe claimed the victory.

'H-E-L-P' Sign On Snow Calls Doctor by Air

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 18 (AP)—An appeal for "H-E-L-P"—spelled out on the snow with spruce boughs—sent Pilot Roy Dickson and a doctor flying toward an isolated cabin in the wild mountain country west of Anchorage today.

It was believed somebody is in desperate need of medical attention. Pilot Ray Peterson, flying through Merrill Pass with eight passengers, saw the "H-E-L-P" signal after a man ran from the cabin and set fire to a huge spruce tree to attract attention to the letters. Peterson could not land without risk on the plane because of the risk to his passengers.

Game wardens said it was not uncommon for a trapper, either with his family or a partner, to be in such a remote spot.

Doctor Grilled At Blood Trial

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 18 (AP)—Testimony of defense medical witnesses that Muriel Blood's fatal injuries were entirely consistent with a fall from her third-story bedroom window was subjected to lengthy attack by the State today at Richard E. Blood's trial on a charge of murdering his wife in their home Sept. 5.

Dr. James Hamilton, medical expert called in Blood's defense, insisted under cross-examination by Prosecutor James O. Watts that Mrs. Blood's injuries were apparently the result of a fall.

He told Judge G. Frederick Frost and the jury that study of the autopsy report indicated to him that Mrs. Blood's whole left side struck the concrete driveway outside the home at 22 Perrin ave., Pawtucket, when she fell.

He was unofficially declared winner over John E. Murphy by the slimmest margin—a single vote, 4771 to 4770, after a day of voting marked by clashes at the polls and in the election offices.

Counters were re-checking the returns during the night and had tabulated five of the city's six wards when an outbreak of fist fights between partisans forced City Clerk Edward J. Dowd to halt the work of counting until today.

Ballot boxes were impounded and locked in Peabody City Hall vaults, with police on guard. Watchers were assigned by each contesting faction to sit by the safe as well, to prevent anyone from tampering with the 8006-odd votes.

Regardless of the outcome of today's official tabulation, each contestant has announced he will seek a recount. Close battles also took place in the balloting for councilors-at-large, with Harry L. Hayes, Jr., Alexander Lukinchook, Leo F. McGrath, Frank A. Narvis and Robert Blake the apparent winners.

Alden Quirk, incumbent and given the highest total in the primaries, was defeated.

Fall River

Mayor Alexander C. Murray was re-elected for a fourth consecutive term in Fall River in a three-cornered contest. He polled 16,551 votes to 11,950 for Dr. Owen L. Egan and ex-Mayor Edmund P. Talbot.

Taunton

Only 38 per cent of Taunton's registered voters cast ballots in that city's off-year municipal elections—7017 of the 19,005 voters went to the polls.

John F. Parker, Byron P. Taylor and Mrs. Ruth A. O'Neill were elected to the school committee. Voters elected seven councilmen.

FD's Yule Trees Earn $900 in Market Sale

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Dec. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt's private evergreen plantation has produced 800 Christmas trees and some 200 Yule logs for the market this year for a total revenue of approximately $900.

One of the presidential Christmas trees already graces the lawn of the new Franklin D. Roosevelt high school here, as a gift from the President.

Panhandler's Take $9.45 in Hour and Half

A panhandler, working the Christmas shopping crowds Tuesday collected $9.45 in nickels and dimes in an hour and a half, it was testified in municipal court today, as he and six street pedlars were arraigned in the first of a Christmas drive by police on fakers.

Patrolman John F. Gallagher of Division 2, assigned to clean-up of Christmas pedlars who hawk their wares around Washington, Summer, Winter, Tremont and other streets in the vicinity, was complainant in all cases.

The six hawkers, after promising not to work again in the downtown area, were given Christmas presents of freedom by Judge Charles L. Carr. He placed their cases on file.

The panhandler, one-armed and named Arthur Pludhorne of Providence, was given a State Farm sentence. He had a previous record.

Bandits' Loot Totals $1000

Smashing a safe after gaining entrance through a skylight, burglars today escaped with more than $1000 in cash and cigarettes from the office of the Cigarette Service Co., Salem st., Medford.

The safe-breakers fled, dropping a large number of tools, when a milkman saw them at work. On their arrival, police found one safe broken and empty, with drills forced into a second.

Included in the loot, police said, was $65 in pennies. A much larger amount of money in the second safe was not reached by the thieves.

CAPE MAN DIES AT 97

EAST DENNIS, Dec. 18 (AP)—David Shiverick, 97, the oldest resident of the town, a descendant of Colonial fathers and of a famous shipbuilding family, died today after a year's illness.

TO SEEK DIVORCE—Alleging mental cruelty, Dolores Del Rio, Mexican film actress, will file a divorce suit today against Cedric Gibbons, movie art director. Action was revealed by her attorney, Lloyd Wright. The couple were married about ten years ago.

Smoke Fells Woman, 45 Flee Fires Here

One woman was overcome by smoke and 45 others were driven from homes in Newton, Somerville and Beacon Hill fires and $3000 damage was caused to a Cohasset estate in another blaze.

The smoke victim was Mrs. Nora Purdue, 48, of Peabody st., Newton. Her husband, John, and firemen carried her out of the blazing two-family house as others fled. She was revived.

Remaining residents who saved themselves were the Purdue daughters, Rose, 22, and Helen, 16; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Killian and their son, Frank, 40. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

An overheated furnace was blamed for the Somerville blaze which broke out in the basement of a three-family dwelling in Maine ter.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Walsh and two small grandchildren were forced to flee from the first floor. The families of James G. Carroll, on the second floor, and Morrill J. Power, third floor, escaped by rear stairways.

Fire in a storeroom at the rear of a first-floor apartment in West Cedar st., Beacon Hill, drove out the occupants of a five-story apartment house.

One of those forced to flee was Helen Aronovitz, 29, who "aunted after crawling across a third-floor fire escape to an adjoining building. Her mother, Mrs. Lena Aronovitz, 58, and sister, Ann, 23, made similar escapes.

Two alarms were sounded when flames swept the barn and garage of the Arthur E. Manheimer estate in Forest ave., Cohasset.

Caretaker William Edwards discovered the blaze, and with the owner, a retired Chicago merchant, saved three new automobiles.

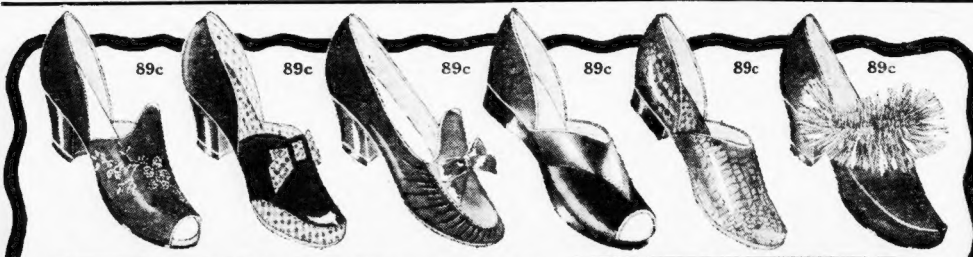

Rites for Higgins To Be Held Friday

Funeral services for James C. Higgins, 72, of Somerset ave., Winthrop, well known Boston business man, will be held Friday with a solemn high mass of requiem at 9 a. m. in St. John's Church, Winthrop.

A past grand knight of Winthrop Council, K. of C. Higgins was a member of the Clover Club of Boston, the Winthrop Lodge of Elks and other organizations.

ANTI-WAR GROUP FIGHTS CASH AID FOR BRITAIN

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 18, 1940

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (INS)—Declaring that President Roosevelt's proposal to assume Britain's new war contracts is "fantastic" beyond comparison, Verne Marshall, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, publisher, today announced he had been promised the support of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his campaign to keep America out of war.

Marshall, National leader of the No Foreign War Committee, asserted that "the people of America are being marshaled as potential victims of another hoax such as was practiced on them by Balfour and Joffre in 1917."

Speaking of what the President said at his press conference yesterday, the publisher stated:

"What President Roosevelt is proposing is that Congress pass a law giving one man—himself—the authority to do something which no other man or woman in the United States would dare do, so long as the neutrality law and the Johnson Act are not repealed. And Mr. Roosevelt says he isn't asking for their repeal."

"What he really is asking is one-man power, the absolute authority of a dictator."

LAUDS LINDBERGH

Asked if he had any pledge of

support from Lindbergh in this campaign, Marshall said he had first talked to the flier three weeks ago and that Lindbergh had repeated constantly that he would aid by making speeches or giving the committee other help.

"If there were a half dozen Lindberghs," Marshall said, "this fight would be over in a week. I hope I can get him to speak and I hope I can get him to march at the head of this parade."

The publisher said he believed that Lindbergh is a "potent" force in American public opinion, adding:

"I don't care what they think of Lindbergh east of the Alleghenies—I know what they think of him west of the Alleghenies."

Marshall attacked an advertisement by the William Allen White Committee to Aid the Allies and indicated that he thought it was nicely timed with President Roosevelt's statement from the White House yesterday. He asserted that there was a direct tie between White's committee, the State Department and the White House.

CALLS PROPOSAL AMAZING

"At last," he said, "England and her allies in the Administration at Washington have concluded that it is futile for any European belligerent to seek loans in the United States. Hence this amazing proposal of an outright gift of our money, ships, airplanes, factories, and, last of all, men."

"Before the people of America are sold down the river again, their investments and their cash jeopardized by another orgy of foreign war financing at Washington they at least should know whether there is any rhyme or reason for delivering themselves to Britain."

"I say there are many billions of British Empire credits still untouched in this hemisphere. They may run as high as 12 or 13 billions."

"In the United States alone British credits aggregate more than British purchasing commissions have bought or will buy in a year."

SEES F. D. AS DICTATOR

Stating that America was "tricked" into entry into the last war, Marshall declared that the national is headed for "exact repetition of what took place 23 years ago—unless the overwhelming majority of us who resent this frightening and headlong rush to war assert ourselves."

"President Roosevelt," he continued, "is substituting now for the Balfour and Joffre and Viviani of 1917. That is not surprising. Instead of being the great quarterback, he is in training now to become the whole team. He would be the dictator of the United States immediately after our entrance into the war."

"And as soon as we give our factories, ships, money and materials to England, we are in this war beyond necessity for further argument."

Marshall admitted that he'd

"sick" if England were defeated.

"But," he added, "if America entered the war, I'd be a damned sight sicker."

Logan-Walter Bill Vetoed by President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt vetoed the Logan-Walter bill today in a message asserting he was convinced that it would "produce the utmost chaos and paralysis in the administration of the government at this critical time."

"I am convinced," the Chief Executive wrote the House, "that it is an invitation to endless and innumerable controversies at a moment when we can least afford to spend either governmental or private effort in the luxury of litigation."

The bill, center of a congressional controversy for months, was designed by its sponsors to establish uniform procedure and expand methods of court review of administrative rulings of certain quasi-judicial federal agencies.

HOUSE FIGHT LOOMS

House leaders made plans to call up the veto during the afternoon. With a two-thirds vote necessary to override the veto in both House and Senate, Democratic chieftains were hoping to muster enough strength to sustain the President along with his message to the House, where the legislation originated, the President appended a lengthy detailed analysis of the bill by Atty-Gen. Jackson.

The Chief Executive said that quite apart from the general philosophy of the measure, "its unintentional inclusion of defense functions would require my disapproval at this time."

HINTS AT CHAOS

"Apart from a disagreement with the general philosophy of legal rigidity manifest in some provisions of the bill," he asserted, "I am convinced that it would produce the utmost chaos and paralysis in the administration of the government at this critical time."

In conclusion, the President said: "Today, in sustaining American ideals of justice, an ounce of action is worth more than a pound of argument. For these reasons I return the bill without my approval."

OUSTER ORDERED—Princess Hohenlohe of Hungary, once described in the British House of Commons as a "notorious member of Hitler's spy organization," today had orders from the Justice Department in Washington to leave the United States by Saturday or face deportation proceedings.

International News Photograph Service

Dies Will Probe Aircraft Plots

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (INS)—The Dies Committee announced today it would conduct a secret investigation in Washington Friday into alleged sabotage and other serious charges involving the Southern California aircraft industry.

The new inquiry was decided on after Atty-Gen. Robert H. Jackson revealed that the Federal Government lacks power to prosecute sabotage in factories producing airplanes for the British or other foreign nations.

Vichy to Continue Axis Co-operation

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Dec. 18 (INS)—The crisis between the Reich and vanquished France was settled today with a compromise whereby Vichy assured Germany the French government would not deviate from its policy of co-operation with the Axis powers.

German authorities said the regime of Premier Petain agreed upon continued collaboration with the "new European order" projected by Germany and Italy.

Furthermore, they declared, Pierre Laval, who was ousted by Petain as French vice premier and foreign minister, will remain a member of the French government.

Laval, however, will have little or none of the active power he hitherto enjoyed.

VICTORY FOR PETAIN

The crisis at Vichy, it was indicated, amounted to a personal showdown between Petain and Laval in which the aged marshal emerged completely victorious.

Solution of the crisis unmistakably eased the tension between Berlin and Vichy that suddenly flared up when Petain removed Laval from his governmental posts. Yesterday the German ambassador to France, Otto Abetz, conferred with Petain and Laval at Vichy, investigating the reasons for Petain's sudden move.

Abetz' return to Paris from Vichy was followed quickly by disclosure that the crisis had passed. Wilhelmstrasse authorities revealed that Petain supplied an exhaustive statement regarding his motives for ousting Laval and replacing him as foreign minister by Pierre-Etienne Flandin.

German authorities, however, declined to reveal Petain's motives for the time being on grounds that "they are a French affair and must be left solely in French hands."

PERSONAL FACTORS

Authoritative quarters informed International News Service that any possibility of a Franco-German impasse—with the serious implications that such a deadlock might produce—has blown over.

They added that the causes of Laval's dismissal were not rooted in the principles of French political policy, but in "personal" factors.

These same quarters asserted they have every reason to believe that the "positive" course of Franco-German relations henceforth will continue without interruption and that this is indicated by the easing in tension between Germany and France.

Laval's Role Still Remains a Mystery

VICHY, France, Dec. 18 (AP)—The position of former Vice-Premier Pierre Laval, who went to Paris last night after a visit here by Otto Abetz, Adolf Hitler's ambassador to Paris, remained unclear today, but his friends declared he was on a mission for the French government.

These sources intimated that Laval would resume the negotiations for French-German collaboration which his removal from Chief of State Philippe Petain's cabinet last week interrupted temporarily.

Laval was expected to remain in Paris five or six days, during which time, sources here said, Abetz probably would report to Hitler on his talks with Petain and Laval yesterday.

Clarification of Laval's role by

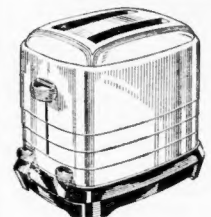

Hitler and Petain was expected, although no new meeting of these two leaders was anticipated.

The opinion was expressed in some quarters that the French cabinet would be reorganized soon, and that Petain would issue a message explaining any changes.

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 18, 1940

units and light artillery which joined the Italian base of El Wak killing 50 of its defenders and capturing 120 others with considerable equipment.

With the mechanized spearheads and the positions dominating the route west toward Tobruk, British infantry reinforced by eager Australians marched up for a direct assault along the Roman "Via Vittoria"—the "road to triumph" the Italians built for their frustrated drive toward Alexandria.

Pressure on Graziani Eased, Rome Says

ROME, Dec. 18 (AP)—British troops in Libya, weakened by losses, have eased their pressure on Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's army under steady bombardment by Italian artillery and planes, the Italian high command said today.

It also said the British cruiser reported hit by two torpedoes from Italian planes was seen afterward to sink.

Italian planes were said to have bombed British warships off Bardia again yesterday. A communiqué said the British lost two planes and the Italians one in air fights which resulted.

The High Command reported that Italian fleet bombed oil supplies and harbor works at Port Sudan and other points in East Africa.

Italy's armored attachments were reported to be trying desperately to win down British armored columns attacking in Libya on the tenth day of their desert drive.

Revolt in Ethiopia

Growing, Commons Told
LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Revolt in Ethiopia against the Italian forces of occupation appears to be making progress, Foreign Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, informed the House of Commons today.

"Information as to conditions in Abyssinia (Ethiopia) is naturally difficult to obtain," Butler said, "but the movement of revolt against the Italians appears to be making progress."

"It is the policy of His Majesty's government to extend to Emperor Haile Selassie, as well as to all elements within Abyssinia willing to bear arms against the enemy, all possible assistance in their fight for freedom."

Greeks Believe Foe Destroying Supplies

ATHENS, Dec. 18 (AP)—Fires have broken out in Kilsura, it was officially reported today, leading to belief that Italian forces were burning supplies in preparation to abandon that mountain town on the middle Albanian front.

Greeks pointed out that such fires were observed before the Italians relinquished Argirocastro and Fort Edda.

Both Kilsura and Tepeleni, farther west, were reported within the range of Greek machine-guns.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

Heavy fighting was reported continuing both in the Kilsura-Tepeleni sector and in the coastal region to the southwest and the Greeks already called the contest in the former sector a "brilliant victory," likely to have a decisive influence on future operations.

Kilsura, about midway between Tepeleni and Tepeleni on a cross-country road, bars an important route to Tepeleni and the lower valley of the Viosio river.

Kilsura the Greeks were said to have used 50 tanks in a roving defense of their fortifications while Greek artillery held them under fire.

FLANKING PALERMO

On the coast the Greeks were said to be well within range of Catania, which the Italians were reported defending with reinforcements. Greeks said they were flanking the port of Palermo, in the northern sector fighting had slowed down by bad weather, but nevertheless the Greeks continued to report local successes.

A motor transport column apparently headed for the coastal front to supply the Italians was bombed yesterday by the British Royal Air Force, according to its communiqué.

The bombers found the column on a coastal road between Agnina and Valmura, it was said, and a number of bombs were seen to burst on the roadside. The trucks also were machine-gunned but, the communiqué said, a "fierce snowstorm" which hampered the operations prevented observation of the full effect of the attack.

All the British planes were reported to have returned safely.

Lloyd George Won't Take U. S. Post Report

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—The London News Chronicle says that David Lloyd George has declined the Ambassadorship to the United States, although pressed strongly by Prime Minister Churchill to accept.

Lloyd George, the paper added, refused the post in consideration of his advanced age—73.

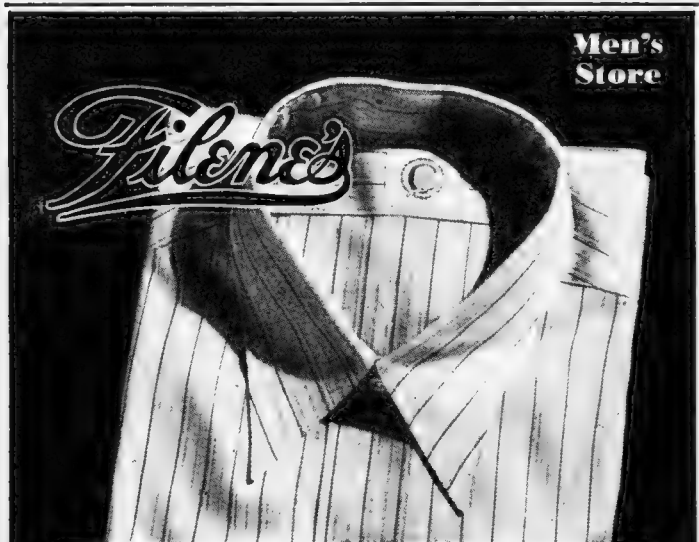

RAIDS KILL 4588 IN MONTH

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Civilian air raid casualties in the United Kingdom in November were 4588 dead and 6202 injured, it was announced officially today.

Italian Jailed For Listening to British Radio

ROME, Dec. 18 (AP)—First punishment of Italians for listening to a British broadcast was reported today from Padua, where the proprietor of a bar was sentenced to a month in jail and fined $40 lire (about $25).

A young woman who entered the bar at night to use a telephone informed Fascist party officials she had heard the broadcast, and they summoned police.

Civilian War Victims Pledged British Aid

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Britain pledged compensation today for all her adult citizens killed or injured "as a result of enemy action."

Sir Kingsley Wood, member of the exchequer, announced in the House of Commons that the plan would apply to injuries already incurred and that increased rates would be payable from Dec. 24 on.

Allowances to civil defense volunteers and gainfully occupied persons will be increased to a maximum of 5 shillings ($1) a week for married men and single men or women supporting dependent relatives.

Compensation granted for the first time to persons not gainfully employed will range from seven shillings ($14) a week for single women in a hospital to 21 shillings ($42) a week for married men not in the hospital.

Provision will be made for widows of civilian workers comparable to that for widows of serving soldiers. Such a widow would be paid a funeral grant of seven pounds 10 shillings ($39), and 50 shillings ($10), a week for 13 weeks after her husband's death, if in war service.

5588 GOVERNOR'S MARGIN

Official tabulation of the 1947 gubernatorial election today revealed Gov. Siftonist defeated Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dover by 5588 votes. Prior to the recount the governor was announced as winner by 7145.

5000 Cadets Given Pep Talk By Hitler

BERLIN, Dec. 18 (AP)—Adolf Hitler made an unannounced address at noon today in the Berlin Sports Palace to 5000 cadets about to receive commissions.

The meeting was closed and the Fuehrer's remarks were not published but DNE, official news agency said that he gave the young soldiers "an inspiring address to prepare them for the task as leaders of the National Socialist Army."

Field Marshal General Walther von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the army, also spoke.

Conservative Fills Chamberlain's Seat

BIRMINGHAM, England, Dec. 18 (AP)—P. E. Bennett, a Conservative, was elected without opposition today to fill the House of Commons seat of the late Neville Chamberlain. He was chosen by the party and, under a political truce, there were no other candidates.

BRITISH IN AFRICAN SMASH

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Dec. 18 (AP)—A strong British force which included "armored fighting vehicles and artillery" has dashed the plans of Italian command and captured the Italian base at El Wile, killing 50 men and suffering only 40 losses, the British command announced today.

The communiqué said that at least 25 Italian, in addition to 500 captured, along with their guns, some machine guns and large quantities of stores and supplies.

A later communiqué issued by the British Middle East command in Cairo put the number of prisoners at 120 and guns at 15—Editor's note.

Units drawn from widely separated parts of Britain's African empire took part in the operation, including land and air detachments from South Africa and French troops.

It was a combined operation which British media called Italy in 1941.

Housewife Spy Awaits Hanging

LONDON, Dec. 18.—In a traitor's cell today, Mrs. Dorothy Pamela O'Grady, 42-year-old British housewife sat awaiting a fearful fate hanging as a spy against her country.

Yesterday, in the gloomy Hampshire Assizes at Winchester, the dark, dumpy woman who wears eyeglasses, but who may become a celebrated precedent, was sentenced to death.

The sentence followed her conviction on charges of cutting a military telephone line, having questionable documents in her possession, and drawing a map of the Isle of Wight, a restricted area.

Because she was convicted in a civil court she cannot even choose the method of execution. Had she been convicted by a court-martial she might have had her choice of the gibbet or shooting.

Is the event that no clemency is afforded Mrs. O'Grady she will become a precedent, because in this war and in the last war there were no women executed by Britain as spies, although several were convicted during the World War.

Germany executed a number of women, including English Nurse Edith Cavell, and so did France, the most notorious of the French victims of a firing squad being the dancer Mata Hari.

In the World War, Britain shot 12 spies and hanged one, while a 14th committed suicide as he awaited his doom. But all women spies sentenced to death had the sentences commuted to penal servitude.

Should Mrs. O'Grady's execution go through, she will be the fourth spy hanged this month by the British.

This week one Charles Albert Van Den Kieboom, a Dutch subject, was hanged in Pentonville Prison. His execution came just a week after his two associates, named Meier and Waldberg, were hanged together at the same place.

All three were convicted of operating a portable wireless transmitting set with which to send messages to the enemy.

Navy Cross Awarded Capt. Joseph Gainard

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Navy will award Capt. Joseph A. Gainard, Melrose, Mass., the Naval Cross tomorrow for his exploit in burning the S. S. City of Flint safely back to the United States after its capture by a German naval vessel.

Rep. Rogers (R.) of Massachusetts, father of the bill to award Gainard a congressional medal, said the presentation was to have been made by Secretary Knox, but that he was out of the city, necessitating the award by some other official.

London Women, Urged by Reds, Hit Milk Prices

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—An angry deputation of women organized by the London District Communist party protested at the ministry of food today over the increased price and shortage of milk.

"Shame" and "disgraceful" the women cried throughout a half-hour meeting with Sir Henry French, who received them on behalf of Food Minister Lord Woolton.

Dr. H. E. Hodge of the ministry health staff also was berated when he declined to discuss the question of free distribution of cod liver oil. As he attempted to leave the women rushed the door to bar the way, but he forced a passage.

Then the women trooped out shouting, "We want more and cheaper milk." Police ushered them from the building.

Long Gives Out 10 New $2180 Jobs

Just what State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long has-hily criticized during Gov. Curley's administration he did himself today—setting up a new kindergarten in the state income tax division.

On the public rack only a few weeks for his drab grab tax plan, subsequently quashed by Gov. Saltonstall, the tax commissioner today made 10 appointments of deputy income tax assessors at a total salary cost of $2180 to the state.

Curley, in his administration, appointed 31 such deputies, a move which brought a statement from Long then that the new move were completely untainted and thus could not be used in the department without disrupting the service.

Today's Long appointees, however, are also frankly "students" and will receive $2180 a year each while in the follow-up of the Curley kindergarten.

WHITE'S NEPHEW NAMED

The 10 appointees are:

Joseph R. White of Newton, nephew of Thomas W. White, the latter being secretary to Republican U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., and Saltonstall campaign strategist.

Fred C. Haigis of Montague, brother of John W. Haigis, former Republican candidate for governor.

George O. Darling, of Malden, former confidential secretary to the chairman of the State Public Utilities Commission.

Henry Hoffmann of Milton, Reuben Guild, of Boston, Robert McGowan, of Attleboro, William Fairbanks, of Cayville, George Luftman, of Dorchester, Edward F. Phalan, of Brighton, and Edward Beiment, of Framingham.

CLASS OPENED

The kindergarten in the income tax division was originally created when Curley appointed men who were criticized as his "political friends" as deputy assessors.

Acting on his view that the 31 Curley appointees were untrained and thus a drag on the division, Long put the entire class in one room, set apart from the rest of the staff.

Thus they earned the group name of kindergarten.

In 1937 the last of the group were dropped with the announcement that there were no further funds to pay their salaries. This was when Charles F. Hurley was governor.

'Daddy' Traffic Cop Felled

Patrolman Melvin H. Wharton, 65, affectionately known as "Daddy" Wharton to hundreds of Brookline school children, was seriously injured by an automobile today and will spend Christmas at Peter Bent Brigham hospital, if he lives.

The veteran officer was at his post in Washington st., Brookline, helping the youngsters on their way to St. Mary's and the Pierce schools, when a machine struck him and hurled him through the air several feet.

The operator of the car, Samuel Hurwitz, 50, of Addington rd., Brookline, said he had been blinded by the sun, according to police.

Girl Auto Victim Funeral Tomorrow

A requiem high mass will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. in St. Peter's Church, Dorchester, for Lillian U. Winchester, 16-year-old junior in Girls' Latin school, who died at Baker Memorial Hospital on Tuesday following a relapse from auto injuries suffered last August.

Miss Winchester, an athlete and accomplished musician, was the daughter of former State Senator and Mrs. Charles A. Winchester of 35 Tremlett st., Dorchester.

MRS. F. D. WELCOMES JULIANA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, arriving here for a three-day visit, was greeted on the White House steps this afternoon by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The 31-year-old Princess, now an exile in Canada, had been welcomed at Union Station by representatives of the State Department and the Netherlands legation.

She wore a black wool dress and knee length blond mink coat. Her hat was an off-the-face model in black felt, trimmed with a black veil.

TRIP BY RAIL

The princess, accompanied by her chamberlain, Baron De Vos, and his wife, her lady-in-waiting, was making the trip by rail from Ottawa, Canada. Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and other officials arranged a welcome for the royal party upon arrival of the train (at 12:50 p. m., E. S. T.).

When the Germans invaded Holland last May, Queen Wilhelmina, the Crown Princess and her husband, Prince Bernhard of Lippe, and their two children sought refuge in England. Juliana brought her daughters to Canada in June.

A White House luncheon was planned for the Crown Princess and her party directly after their arrival at the Union Station. Then Mrs. Roosevelt was to take Juliana on a short sightseeing trip, including a visit to Mount Vernon. After dinner, the Dutch princess was invited to be the First Lady's guest at a symphony concert.

PRESS CONFERENCE

Tomorrow morning the crown princess will do something out of the ordinary for royalty. She will receive the members of Mrs. Roosevelt's all-feminine press conference.

A formal dinner for the princess will be served at the White House tomorrow night. About midday Friday the crown princess will leave for New York.

Funeral of Lourie, Film Pioneer, Held

Funeral services for Jacob Lourie, 66, of Alton ct., Brookline, a pioneer in the New England motion picture field, were held today at Temple Mishkin Tefila, Roxbury.

Born in Russia, he came here at the age of 5. In 1912, with motion pictures in their infancy, he opened the famous "twin" houses, the Modern and Beacon Theater in Boston. He became general manager and president of the Theaters in downtown Boston and Shawmut Theater in Roxbury. He installed the first "talkie" equipment in the United States at the Modern Theater.

Jacob Lourie

At the time of his death he was associated with M. & P. Theaters Corp. and a director of Publix Netoco Corp. He was a charter member of Temple Mishkin Tefila, Roxbury.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Rhoda F. Lourie; three sons, Albert, Joseph and Herbert; two daughters, Mrs. Nathan Buchman and Mrs. Beatrice Yarchin, and a brother, Meyer, all of this city. He was a brother of the late Judge David A. Lourie.

$150,000 FOR GREEKS

A check for $150,000 from New Englanders was received today by the Greek War Relief Association to be forwarded to aid the civilian population in Greece.

AGE OF MAN TRACED 30,000 YEARS

Modern man is at least 30,000 years old, according to the Rev. Joseph Doherty, S. J., head of a Boston College anthropological expedition, who is now en route home from St. Louis.

In an address in St. Louis the Boston College scientist declared that the graveyards of pre-historic Syria had yielded evidence tracing modern mankind back to at least 30,000 B. C.

Father Doherty, who has just returned to America, said the expedition uncovered a petrified skeleton and well-preserved skull of a child, seven or eight years old, which he described as "probably the earliest remains of a definitely modern man yet found."

The skull has the rounded characteristics of the modern face, he said, and lacks the underlying jaw, receding forehead and massive eye-sockets of its ape-like Neanderthal forebears.

The anthropological age of the skull was established by the contemporary stone-age tools and weapons found with it, 14 feet below the surface.

The site of the discovery was at the bottom of a cliff in the valley of Antelias, six miles from Beirut in the modern republic of Lebanon.

Deputy Chief Downey Ends Fire Service

Deputy Fire Chief Thomas F. Downey, veteran of 42 years' active service in the Boston department, retired today from active duty. His most recent post was supervisor of the fire prevention division. Also on the retired list today were the names of Daniel P. Daley, Engine 43, and Rupert E. Hutchison of Engine 32.

Wrap up a THRILL in this Year's Holly Wreath!

Buick SPECIAL Sedan, $1052. White sidewall tires extra.*

SUPPOSE, come Christmas morning, you took your wife to the front door, pointed out through the holly wreath—and there let her see a brand-new Buick standing at the curb!

A thrill? You bet—for the whole family!

Out of the question? Not at all. Look:

We're not suggesting that you add the cost of a new Buick to your Christmas budget.

But you probably will be buying a new car soon and we are simply proposing that you buy it now, a few months ahead of time—and make this a holiday long to be remembered.

We're suggesting that there's no time like the present to get back of that big FIREBALL Eight—no time like right now to start piling up gasoline mileage economies that run as high as 10% or 15%.

There's no time like holiday time to dress up yourself (and family) in smart, fresh Buick aerodynamic styling, or to introduce your brood to the roomy comfort of this BuicCoil-cradled traveler.

You can do that—if you act promptly.

A trial ride to give you a hint as to what

Buick can do—a little figuring on your present car's worth (at today's trade-in values, not next spring's)—a little working out of convenient terms—and you'll have a FIREBALL to celebrate this Christmas!

How about it? It's one thing your wife would never expect—and just about the finest gift any man could give his family!

the way to New York and New Jersey.

Meanwhile, on the possibility of suicide advanced by friends, police were searching quarries, woodlands and beaches — particularly lonely and little-frequented roads — for Corey and the car he rented in Salem, allegedly to drive to Hull and pump four bullets at his successful rival in love.

These friends, said police, pictured him as a jealous man whose fits of rage were invariably succeeded by periods of black depression.

With all that he held dear now lost, the love of the victim, Marie Cheney — friends said they were certain police never could find him alive.

But authorities also took no chances that a male, false might befall the pretty bride of the murder victim left husbandless after a three month honeymoon.

Mrs. Legro vanished from her home in Peabody. She was variously reported at the homes of friends in Boston and even in a hospital. She is reported awaiting motherhood, although the event is not scheduled until early summer.

GUARDED BY POLICE

Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing was silent about where she had gone, but it was learned that she had been afforded every police protection for her future safety.

Medical Examiner William E. Hines of Hingham, after performing an autopsy, with the assistance of Dr. Alan R. Moritz of Harvard found one bullet had pierced the lower lip and had entered through the mouth down through the chest and into the victim's heart. A second had pierced through his back and a third lodged in the spleen.

Belief that Corey had, or would, take his life was expressed by many, but not by his grief-stricken mother.

She knew her George "was a good boy" and that he would soon return to their Phelps st. Salem, home to face his accusers.

But Peabody police and Salem police methodically hunted through the quarry regions and the lonely woods between the two cities.

Hull and Metropark police combed all of Nantasket Beach, looking for every cottage. Authorities in Weymouth looked for automobile tracks to quarries in that town, while Scituate police reported they had visited the marshes, beaches and cliffs.

SERIES OF THREATS

With Mrs. Legro now hidden away under police protection, investigators revealed a long series of threats made against her young husband's life.

It was stated that the brilliant Dartmouth graduate and athlete was threatened twice just prior to his marriage to the former Marie Cheney last Sept. 6.

Twice Peabody police witnessed fight. On still another occasion, Mrs. Legro's teddy was told that if she married "You'll be a widow in a month."

Corey never was content to accept the fact the girl he also loved was married friends said.

Both Corey and Legro had known the pretty brunette for several years. Both had gone out to obtain educations. Both were successful.

Legro winning a degree at Dartmouth and Corey becoming a Northeastern University graduate. It was a long contest in love and although Legro won out, Corey's fondness and dreams never waned.

The losing suitor at times showed no outward bitterness but at other times his apparent hate, police were told, flamed in renewed threats that he never would forget. It was said that Corey recently learned that the girl he had lost was an expectant mother. He feared, police were told, that a child would mean an end to his future hopes and the thought drove him virtually insane.

According to the belief entertained by police, Corey decided Monday to have a final showdown.

He drove to a Salem garage and leaving his own automobile, hired a lighter machine. He told attendants that he planned to drive some distance and that it would be cheaper than operating his own car, a heavy and expensive model.

He was distraught and in a hurry at that time, they said, leaving without observing the formalities or paying the usual deposit. He wheeled out of the garage while an attendant was checking up records.

How far he could go was problematical. His family claimed he had very little money with him. But while authorities searched for him about the North and South Shores he knew so well, they asked police departments throughout the nation to help.

WARRANT ISSUED
A warrant for his arrest, charging he murdered Legro at the latter's Nantasket honeymoon cottage Monday at dusk, was issued by Judge Daniel A. Shea at the latter's Hingham home.

Complaints were Chief William A. Armour of the Hull police and Sergeant Arthur Kelley and Charles Walsh.

At the time the warrant was asked for, detectives claimed they now had a witness who had seen Corey flee from the Legro cottage shortly after the shooting.

Reporters who asked further information were told that no other disclosures would be made at this time.

Police guards were placed at a number of spots, both in guarding members of the Cheney and Legro families and at places where it was thought possible Corey might still appear.

Nothing was overlooked in possible hideouts of the sought man. After unsuccessful search of the home of relatives on Hudson st. South End, police noted in a nation-wide broadcast that he also had relatives in Braintree, La. and in Los Angeles, Cal.

Police said Corey had been a visitor at the Braintree home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. George M. look at the time of his brother's wedding. The town is 18 miles outside of New Orleans. The police teletype message said that this sister-in-law was now a widow and living with Corey's parents in Salem.

RELATIVE ON COAST
Another relative whose name was mentioned in the broadcast was Mrs. Sadie Corey, who lived on Sagamore ave., Los Angeles, until about three months ago. Her present address was not immediately learned.

"Corey is probably armed and officers should exercise caution in apprehension," the broadcast concluded.

This concluding notation was made after Police Chief Armour and his men had searched the entire neighborhood about the murder scene and could find no weapon.

In reconstructing the crime, Dist. Atty. Dewing said he had information that a black sedan drove slowly past the Legro cottage on Fairmount way about five minutes before the shooting. The machine came to a stop before the house next door, a vacant cottage.

Dewing explained that the heavy rain made visibility poor and that Legro, returning from work just after dark, probably never saw his killer. He was the murderer hid on the porch and fired as the young accountant attempted to open his door.

FUNERAL FRIDAY

The Legro family announced funeral services will be held Friday afternoon, Dec. 29, at 2 o'clock in Cedar Grove cemetery, Peabody.

The murder was likewise a hard blow to the family of the bride.

Her mother, Mrs. James Cheney, who has been seriously ill for some weeks, was greatly informed that an accident had befallen her son-in-law. The news brought about such a critical condition that a physician was called to her home.

News of the tragedy came too as a bitter shock to the widowed mother of the missing Corey at her home in Phelps st. Salem. Officers arrived to search the home for her son and told her he was wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of Legro.

Mrs. Corey tearfully told detectives:

"I can't believe my boy is connected with this murder. He was a model son. He had no bad habits and was a good boy. He had gone on short trips from time to time and I am sure he has just gone away for a day or two. He'll come back to me soon and prove he is innocent."

Mrs. Corey collapsed and a physician was summoned. Corey's brother, Michael, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Corey, said they had not seen the wanted man.

MADE TROUBLE

"Naturally it comes to us as a great shock to find that police are looking for George," the sister-in-law said. "His mother has been all morning in the doctor's care in a state of collapse."

"It is nothing new for George to go away on little trips for a time, so we were not worried about that. We expect he will show up very soon."

Until her marriage, Mrs. Legro worked in the Danvers Bleachery at Peabody, and Corey worked for a time at a nearby factory. Mrs. Legro's father, James Cheney, is a member of the executive committee of the International Fur and Leather Workers' Union and president of the local union.

A fellow-worker and girl friend of Marie said yesterday that Corey frequently came to the bleachery to wait for Marie to come out at the noon hour, but that to her knowledge Marie never went out with him, reserving her free time for Legro during his six years of courtship.

KIT MOVING
The young couple were married in Peabody 15 weeks ago next Friday, and because of Corey's enmity, according to Dist. Atty. Dewing, were unable to live there except for a brief time. Legro took his bride to live in Weymouth, but even there, according to Dewing, Corey sought them out and disturbed their peace and happiness.

Legro secured a job in a Weymouth chemical firm three years ago, his training in chemistry at Dartmouth giving him valuable background for the work. He had risen rapidly in his work and as head clerk he had charge of charting vessels bringing raw products here from foreign ports.

His father, Harold W. Legro, assistant engineer on the terminal division of the Boston & Maine railroad, is a former member of the Peabody City Council and a member of the planning commission.

Canadian Minister Tells of Sea Rescue

A BRITISH WEST COAST PORT, Dec. 18 (AP)—Sixteen persons, including six passengers and 10 crewmen, probably perished in the torpedo sinking Saturday of the liner Western Prince, it was disclosed today when Canadian Munitions Minister C. D. Howe and other survivors reached this port.

Among the known dead were Gordon Scott of Montreal financial adviser to Howe, and Capt. John Reed, who stayed with his ship.

"I was in the last boat to get away," Howe said, "and we stayed around to pick up the captain, who hailed us and said he might need us. Capt. Reed, Second Officer R. F. White and Steward Franks were the last men to remain aboard. White was picked up by a raft, but the captain and Franks were lost."

Except for Scott, all of Howe's party were rescued. They included Maj.-Gen. A. E. Macrae, who did special work in Ottawa for the British government, and E. P. Taylor of Toronto and Col. W. C. Woodward of Vancouver, executive assistants to the Canadian minister.

LIFEBOAT CAPSIZES

Scott, former Quebec Provincial Treasurer, and six others were lost when a lifeboat containing 28 persons struck the side of a rescue ship and capsized. Scott fell between the lifeboat and the ship and his body was not recovered.

All the 60 passengers were said to have been in bed when the torpedo struck. The Canadian party had stayed up until after midnight the previous night "to get safely by Friday, the 13th."

Names of the others lost were not immediately available. Howe and his two executive assistants, E. P. Taylor of Toronto and Col. W. C. Woodward of Vancouver, landed here unshaven and in borrowed clothes, but in good health.

Those lost in the capsized lifeboat were, in addition to a small number of crewmen, including Capt. John Reed, also the ship's cook.

"Our rescue was a wonderful piece of seamanship," Howe said. "They did a remarkable job. We're very glad to be here and we're feeling fine."

The Western Prince, a British liner, was the last of a series of ships to be sunk by German submarines in the North Atlantic. It was the only one of the series to be sunk.

NORFOLK, VA., WOMAN

Mrs. James Lamblin of Norfolk, Va., wife of a food ministry employee, was among the survivors in which this port. It was her third wartime crossing.

"Everybody on board was brave as lions," she said, adding that she was glad she was aboard the ship because her experience "was something that doesn't happen to everyone."

She brought along a hook in a waterproof bag "just in case I'd be bored in the lifeboat." When she disembarked she kissed the sailors on the rescue ship.

4 Hub Men Held In Devens Probe

Charged with conspiring to commit larceny, four men were held today in a probe into the activities of a group of men who were alleged to have been working for the German government at Camp Devens. The men are Anthony Petrillo, 45, a foreman; Gaetano Amore, 48; Carmen A. D'Amore, 25; and Gaetano DeLeo, 23.

The men were held in $5000 bail each on charges of conspiring to commit larceny. They were held in a probe into the activities of a group of men who were alleged to have been working for the German government at Camp Devens.

Draftees Secretly Moved to Cape

Special precautions were taken by U. S. Army officials today to keep secret the details of the transfer of 362 draftees by train from Fort Devens, Mass., to Camp Edwards on Cape Cod.

The train left for Cape at 8:20 a. m. and its arrival at Camp Edwards was announced at 11:40 a. m. Over 1000 men accompanied the transfer, and train equipment.

With the shift in status was carried out, federal agents pushed at least two pages of questions concerning alleged past and friends among members of the Fort Devens draftee group.

In Boston, the federal grand jury heard testimony of several witnesses in its investigation of the alleged activities of the draftee group.

Meanwhile, FBI agents were reported to be pushing a series of severe questions to draftee friends, not die them. Agents were expected of their friends on possession of documents of the Fort Devens draftee group who are alleged to have paid for the absence of these.

BRITISH WARSHIPS MOVE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (INS)—A British naval fleet of 10 warships, including the battleship HMS King George V, moved today from the Atlantic to the North Atlantic. The fleet was reported today in a broadcast picked up in New York by NEC.

Britain Arms Loan Plan Urged by F. D.

said it was possible, too, that some legislation authorizing the President to carry out his plan might be necessary.

Leaders explained that additional funds for the projected program would be channeled to regular government departments. After the appropriations were made, they said, the money would be provided from the Treasury's general funds.

Additional borrowing would be necessary to raise the money, they added, and the securities issued thus would increase the public debt.

President Roosevelt devoted most of a 50-minute press conference yesterday to describing the plan—a brand new idea, he termed it—and made it clear that it was one of several now being explored.

The Chief Executive, in response to questions, said the plan would not carry the country closer to war from a legislative viewpoint. He pointed out that the United States was doing all it could at present and asserted that the new method merely would facilitate making aid available.

In brief, the idea called for leasing or lending Britain all the material and supplies she would need in the future, and postponing the accounts settlement until peace came.

Mr. Roosevelt said he intended to ask the new Congress, convening Jan. 3, for legislation and appropriations to put this tentative program or a similar one into effect.

COMMENT SLOW

Details would have to be worked out with Britain, he said. The understanding was that any such plan probably would apply only to such equipment and materials as the British had taken over and above the $200 million worth of "cash and carry" orders they have placed here.

Congressional comment on the presidential proposal was slow and, for the most part, guarded. Some cabinet officials, British advocates endorsed it at once, but many legislators preferred to withhold opinions until they had studied the idea.

The need for a tremendous speed-up in defense production—especially key defense officers and Congressmen have been urging with no real emphasis recently—figured only incidentally in Mr. Roosevelt's long press conference yesterday.

There were indications, however, that the President was receiving his serious consideration as the paramount factor in the whole great effort to arm America quickly and to provide simultaneous aid for Britain.

DOLLAR SIGN BANAL

He shed no light, however, on whether he planned to re-organize the defense commission in an effort to accelerate production.

On the subject of aid for Britain, Mr. Roosevelt said he was trying to eliminate the dollar sign. It was banal, he asserted, to argue about financial assistance or outright financial gifts, because no war in memory had ever been lost or won because of a lack of money. The President used an illustration to describe the principle behind his plan.

Suppose, he said, that a neighbor's house caught fire and the Roosevelt owned a long garden hose which could be used to fight the fire. He would not ask the neighbor to pay him $15 because the hose cost that much, but would be satisfied to get it back after the fire was out. If the hose happened to be damaged, he would remind the neighbor to replace it.

The President, in his discussion, ridiculed the recent flurry of proposals which considered additional assistance to Britain in terms of imminent credits or outright gifts. He doubted, he added, that Britain would want a gift from American taxpayers.

There were other ways of doing things, he said, beside the traditional way. One of several methods, but not necessarily the final one he outlined as follows:

That the United States, which has enough money to do it, take over British orders for supplies and use to buy in this country and turn them into American orders since both countries were ordering essentially the same things.

Then, such supplies as Britain needed because of military events could be either leased or sold subject to the theory that they would be more useful in service in Britain than in storage in the United States.

This would get rid of what he called that silly, foolish old dollar sign.

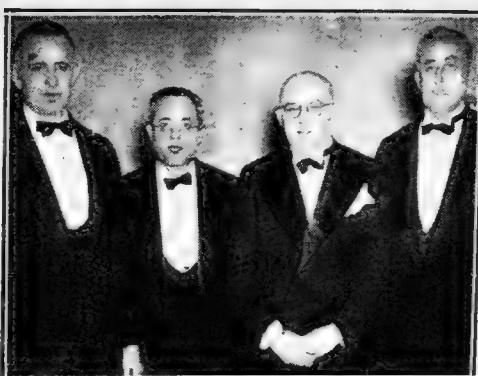

Although no mention was made of the thousands of British World War debt to the United States here in default, the President was evidently mindful of it, for he repeatedly declared his objective was elimination of the dollar sign.

Congress for legislation enabling the United States to lease or loan munitions, guns, planes, ships and other supplies to Great Britain, created unbounded enthusiasm in British political quarters today.

Making no effort to conceal this pleasure, these circles predicted that the stage is now being set for "extremely interesting and vivid discussions" regarding both the United States and Britain after the new American Congress convenes Jan. 3.

Authoritative quarters deplored special interest in what they called President Roosevelt's "dramatic, forthright" approach to the question of additional help for Britain. They said they believed the President cleared the ground by pointing out the fundamental problem is not one of dollars but rather of munitions.

Thus, they declared, President

Roosevelt has put the whole matter on a "realistic basis" and has "shown Americans it is in the interest of the United States to find ways of putting into Britain's hands the necessary means for hastening the end of the war."

President Roosevelt's plan was openly spoken of as the first concrete proposition whereby "the Americans can play a practical part in the fight for the democracies without involving themselves in war."

Channel Ports Blasted by RAF

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Royal Air Force for the second successive night attacked industrial targets at Mannheim, Germany, on the Rhine, and bombed German-held channel ports and airbases, the air ministry announced today.

The attacks were carried out despite bad weather.

In Berlin, the German high command admitted British planes had dropped bombs in southwest Germany during the night, but caused only "slight property and incendiary damage" in two places.

German bombers attacked Birmingham and other "vital areas" in the British midlands, as well as London on the night of Dec. 16. The Nazi high command said, causing fires and explosions.

Wharfage Rate Rise Draws Ire

Boston shipping interests called a protest meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce tonight as a result of a 100 per cent increase in wharfage rates at Commonwealth Pier.

The increase, effective next month, was announced by the state public works department. As soon as the new rates were made public, the same scale was immediately adopted by the Tidewater Terminal,

Inc., which operates the Army Base pier, and Wigan Terminal, Inc., operators of extensive docks in Charlestown.

Concern was expressed by shipping officials over the increase as four steamship lines have dropped Boston as a port of call in recent months. The new rate demand is a charge of 50 cents for each ton of cargo.

1. To Death

Leaving his place of employment, the American Agricultural Chemical Co. (above) in North Weymouth, Kenneth S. Legro (right), 30-year-old brilliant Dartmouth graduate and bridegroom of three months, hurried to his Hull honeymoon home, . . . looking ahead to a warm greeting from his bride. But . . . the long arm of death was reaching out toward him

2. Where Bride Waited—Seated in the chair at the left, Mrs. Legro waited for her husband, heard the shots and a tapping at the door. She dashed there and found his bullet-riddled body. How he was killed was apparent. See No. 3 . . . top center.

CAMERA UNFOLDS HULL TRANGLE LOVE SLAYING²⁵

3. Slain

On the piazza, awaiting his prey, Legro's killer, gun in hand, met his victim at the top of the stairway . . . and fired three bullets into the body of the recent bridegroom

4. Search

Seeking clues near the spot where Legro was fatally shot, police found four bullet shells . . . but failed to locate the murder weapon.

5. Heard Shots—One of the first to reach the side of the dying man was John Kirby, 15, who came running to the scene after hearing the shots.

6. Hunted—Named as a former suitor of Mrs. Legro before her marriage, George Corey of Salem (above) was being sought today for questioning.

7. Widow Under Police Guard—As police hunted Corey on a warrant charging him with the murder of Legro, the slain man's widow, Mrs. Marie Chenery Legro (above) went into seclusion, heavily guarded against vengeance. It was her story of Corey that led to the search for him.

HOW BEST can we celebrate Christmas in this dark year of 1940?

How most effectively can we symbolize the hopes and prayers that flow from our hearts?

How most properly can we show that we as individuals still believe in Him, whose birth we are recalling?

How most fittingly can we say Amen to the Heavenly message, "Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, that shall be to all the people?"

In America, which still enjoys the fruits of Twentieth Century progress, there is one really appropriate answer.

We can give back to God a little of one of the wonderful things He has given to us.

We can acclaim Him with LIGHT.

We can in fact make Christmas eve a veritable NIGHT OF LIGHT.

We can cause our still-peaceful land to glisten among the world's blacked-out nations like a diamond in a setting of coal.

We can prove that two thousand years after His coming to earth, one nation, at least, may with the angels sing:

"Glory to God in the highest; and on earth PEACE to men of good will."

TO ALL AMERICANS we, therefore, address this appeal:

Place a candle in every window of your home on Christmas eve.

Give the illuminated Yuletide tree a conspicuous place in your living room.

Let the brightness of the season shine from your porches out upon your lawns.

Double and treble your decorations of previous years.

If you own a factory or store, throw the master switch and make every window gleam.

Do what you can as well as you can.

WE ALL KNOW that brightness is pleasing to God. The Old Testament "Book of Genesis" tells us that His first act, after the creation of heaven and earth, was the giving of light.

The New Testament informs us that the coming of His only son was proclaimed by a star, brighter than all other stars.

Throughout Holy Scripture His presence is associated with light, just as the malefic influence of Satan is invariably accompanied by darkness.

Moreover, God has favored us above all other generations by permitting us to invent kinds of illumination that our grandparents would have thought impossible.

We can and we most certainly should use these products of our ingenuity and enterprise to honor Him.

THE REWARDS may be greater than any of us realize or anticipate.

Perhaps the light from America will penetrate the blackness of Europe.

Perhaps candles in windows and illuminated trees on lawns will satisfy the war-makers and the war-profiters in our own land that hitherto inarticulate millions are crying for peace.

Perhaps light more convincingly than words will show those who are so anxious to spill the blood of other men's sons that the people who constitute the real America do not want war and will not have war.

And, what is equally as important, perhaps the light in our homes and the faith in our hearts will shame the godless men abroad who are going to blaspheme the Prince of Peace by continuing mass murder on His natal day.

BOSTON IS LOSING its fourth ship line. The Clyde-Mallory company has announced its intention to discontinue service between here, Charleston, S. C., and Jacksonville at the end of the year.

Government assistance in some form, possibly on an adjustment of rates, might remedy the situation behind the decision to suspend these services and permit operations to continue.

But, unless something is done and done quickly, Boston is due to suffer needlessly.

Mr. Roosevelt is at the moment busily engaged in war preparations.

He has just spent several days cruising about the Caribbean, getting glimpses of bases rented from Britain and perhaps arranging for other bases.

There are many who believe he might more advantageously visit Boston, take a really good look at our peaceful port and do something to save it.

MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—Mrs.

Thomas testified before the Tolan committee that, in order to join the electrical union here to get a job, her husband would have to pay three hundred dollars. This seems to indicate that this particular local is a rather high priced club. All clubs offer benefits, and this particular testimony has brought me quite an avalanche of letters giving me information of various kinds.

As a justification, the people who approve of this fee, state that their members receive many benefits and, in addition, that this rule keeps the standard of work high. If that standard should be let down, the danger of fire in all buildings would be greater.

On the other hand, one CIO union member, from somewhere in the wide open spaces, notifies me that in his union the charge is $1.50, which would seem to make his club a little less exclusive.

If a man has been out of work for some time, my informant adds, he can pay it in installments out of his first earnings. I suppose a man can pay the $300 in installments, too, but it might take a bit longer.

JUDGING from the letters I have received, there seems to be considerable interest in this subject and all of us might profit from a real out in the open discussion of the whole situation.

I received a most interesting communication the other day from the Savings Bank Life Insurance Council, in which my correspondent discussed the savings bank life insurance method out in Massachusetts thirty years ago through

THE FIRST LADY AIDS CHINESE RELIEF
Gives Check to Pearl S. Buck, Distinguished Author

Judge Brandeis' efforts. Under this plan, life insurance issued by mutual savings banks "over the counter" seems to meet the needs of the average wage earner rather satisfactorily.

Governor Lehman of New York succeeded in having this form of life insurance adopted in New York State in 1939. Those who have studied the problem of helping the small wage earner, many of whom go without food to pay insurance premiums, seem to think that this type of insurance meets the needs of this group of people better than any other.

IT CERTAINLY would not fit the needs of some of the well-to-do, nor of people who need certain specialized types of insurance, but with the experience in Massachusetts, and with the backing of Justice Brandeis and Governor Lehman, it would seem that wage earners might do well to look up their mutual savings banks and find out about this service.

Under the law, no solicitors can be sent out, so this is one thing in which the wage earner will take the initiative and do his own investigating.

I had a number of appointments yesterday afternoon. I think my most pleasant one brought me into contact with some members of my Georgia Bulloch family.

JESSE JONES says the national income for 1940 will be about $74,000,000,000. Is estimated Federal, State and local taxes collected in 1940 will total about $15,150,000,000. Would, therefore, appear that for every five dollars we enjoy in income we pay out one in taxes. . . "Didn't I see you wearing a bright yellow tie?" asks a client. Possibly, sir. I have a bright green one, too. I swing along with Stoddard King, who said:

"The books I read and the life I lead
"Are sensible, sane and mild.
"I like calm hats, I don't wear spats
"But I want my neckties wild."

PLEASE NOTE. Having checked and discussed the claim most girls named Ann are good lookers, let us further consider this "What's in a Name?" angle. Have you ever met a girl named Helen who was dumb? Well, hardly ever. Most Helens are quick thinkers and know all the answers. Just consider a few of the famous Helens: Helen Hayes, Helen Menken, Helen Morgan. Then there was Helen of Troy. . . Every woman owes it to herself to have a rear view full length snapshot or photograph taken in each of her new outfits. Particularly in new slacks.

QUERIES: Q. What is your favorite card game? A. Pinochle. Q. What was greatest screen performance you have seen? A. Jeanne Eagels in "The Letter." After that John Barrymore in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Q. Why are you pro-English? A. I am not pro-English. Am pro-American and against the idea that might makes right. Q. You say either Mioland or Sweepida will win the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap. Come, come, sir, make up your mind. A. I shouldn't let you crowd me this way, sir. But I'll take Sweepida.

CORRESPONDENCE: "You're so smart, who was Septimus Winner?" asks a Philadelphian. Sir, you had me there. But I looked it up and found Septimus was man who wrote "Oh Where, Oh Where Is My Little Dog Gone?" and "Listen to the Mocking Bird" . . . A feminine how-to-win-a-woman expert states: "We women like men of any age if they have learned how to make us feel glamorous." How can you make a woman feel glamorous? Any information on this will be greatly appreciated as we would like to add it to the files of our Horses and Women Research Department.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—AMBASSADOR GRIFF, The President will follow up his restricting the shipment of steel to Japan which was announced last week with an additional ban on copper and zinc. . . . JUAN NEGRIN: A visa finally has been secured for the son of Alvarez del Vayo, who was your Foreign Minister for Loyalist Spain. He'll arrive here shortly. . . . KENNE SAW MOUNTAIN LANDIS: Moe Berg, the coach-coach for the Boston Red Sox, is expected to lead a contingent of American sporting notables on a Latin-American good-will tour. Berg, who is the most erudite sportsman in this country, speaks ten languages. When he visited Japan he lectured at the university in Tokyo, and after a short visit there, helped simplify their alphabet. . . . MAYOR LE GUARDIA: Stanley Howe, whose resignation as your confidential secretary was announced last week, has become a public relations counselor. The first client he obtained pays more than the annual salary he received in your office. . . . BMI: Joe Meyers, who wrote "California, Here I Come," feels confident that ASCAP will win and that your songs will not suffice for the listening public. "After Jan. 1," said Meyers, "the radio audience will suffer from public domain poisoning." . . . WENDELL WILLKIE: Ed Flynn, who listened to your allegorical references to him at the Gridiron Dinner, wants a chance to reply—because of an error in the parole you selected.

ARTHUR JUDSON: Mrs Chautemps, wife of the ex-Premier of France, is trying to arrange a piano recital for herself at Carnegie Hall. . . . RAYMOND MASSEY: Max Gordon, who co-produced the movie version of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," a great movie, but a box office flop—saw Chico Marx, who just arrived from Hollywood. Gordon asked him: "I guess they're after me, eh?" Chico assured him: "No, Max. They're not after you. They're after Lincoln." . . . GENE BUCK: On Jan. 1, when all ASCAP music goes off the air, Station WNYC will present a program saluting the City of New York as "the Center of Music." The municipal-owned station will be allowed to play ASCAP music. . . . TOMMY CORCORAN: Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., may accept an offer of clerkship from the law firm for which you worked before you went to Washington—Cotton, Franklin, Wright & Gordon. . . . JOCKEY CLUB: At the Friars Club Saturday night Harry Conn, the script writer, paid tribute to Ben Bernie, the philanthropist horse player, by saying: "Bernie has played many benefits for many causes. He's contributed to benefits for Lithuania, Rumania, Patagonia and Latonia." Conn also described Bernie's home town, Bayonne, as "a city without a residential section." . . . TMAT: The Copacabana now has more press agents than proprietors. There are four owners—and five press agents. . . . FED. RESERVE BOARD: James Mooney, General Motors' vice-president, is coralling economists to inspect his hobby—machine models which illustrate the price relationship between gold stocks on hand and supply and demand.

WM. F. GREEN: Last week Mrs. Pinchot gave a party in Washington in honor of Mrs. Osa Johnson. The party was delayed for quite some time because of a labor dispute which finally was settled. The special laborers hired for that party arbitrated their differences, while the guests fidgeted—for among those present were Secretary of Labor Perkins, ex-Secretary of Labor Davis and John L. Lewis. . . . ETHEL BARRYMORE: 20th Century-Fox, interested in Richard Waring—your pupil in "The Corn Is Green"—is offering him $1000 a week without the necessity of submitting to a screen test. . . . A. C. BLUMENTHAL: Come on home. Your wife, Peggy Fears, opens at the Versailles on the 27th.

PAULETTE GODDARD: Charlie Chaplin is determined to have a good time in N. Y., undisturbed by extraneous matter. All his mail, including the most personal, therefore is sent, unopened, to United Artists—and dumped there into a huge wastub. . . . BOBBY JONES: Bill Tilden has been signed by Warner's to make a movie short similar to the golf movie you once made.

A PROMINENT NEW YORK film scene is photographed a Boston friend to report immediately on the possibilities of "an actor named Hagerty of Coney Island, Boston." The reply was: "Waste of time. It's a thing. He goes stop He is under contract to Roosevelt."

THE "ACTOR NAMED HAGERTY" is the towering Jack Hagerty, boss of the Boston branch of Jess James Reconstruction Finance Corporation. . . . In Saturday's "Presidential dinner," the Clover Club presented some of its members and friends in the usual run of satirical skits which have come to be a feature of the club's dinners. . . . And the subsequent stories in the papers mentioned Mr. Hagerty's knack for miming.

VAUGHN MONROE'S STAY at the Studio Terrace Room is a three-months arrangement. . . . With Louella Parsons now putting the whynny of Bing Crosby and with Bing's "press" in the fan magazines going steadily from bad to worse, it might be a good idea for The Bing to take steps to combat the trend.

THE BASIS OF MR. CROSBY'S trouble with his public is the singer's fear of crowds. . . . Bing is really very, very shy. . . . Both of these explanations are so highly unacceptable to the mob that it would be silly to advance them. . . . More effective than explanations might be an immediate muzzle for Bing on his radio program. . . . They'd "forgive Bing" most anything, if he'd stop that chatter. The gag should be lifted only when he is about to sing. . . . The Crosby persiflage on the air, like Fred Allen's laughter at his own jokes, rates with the leading annoyances of 1940.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: The old heave-ho is going to be given the Communist Party in a collaborative effort between Britain and the U. S. A., according to the Washington grapevine. . . . Charlie Sprague, the Lynn manufacturer, is being urged to accept the chairmanship of the Republican State Committee when Lieut. Col. Storis leaves for service. . . . Solicitor Dan Tyler of Brooklyn and Racing Commissioner Elmer Nelson of Milford have strong supporting blocs.

THE G. O. P. INCIDENTALLY is looking around for a candidate for the Boston Mayoralty. . . . Henry Parkman, with a recent statewide fight in back of him, is conceded to be the strongest candidate. . . . But Mayor Tobin spiked that big G. O. P. gun nearly three years ago, when he made Parkman his corporation counsel. . . . With former Governor Curley and former Mayor Mansfield running against Mayor Tobin, a Republican candidate in 1941 might have some kind of a chance, the Republicans think.

TWO NEW TROPICAL SALOONS of the "class" variety are added to the New Year's Eve list of places-to-go with the opening of Walter Finn's sparkling new Corcovado at the Fox and Hounds Club, and The Cave, under Steuben's Vienna Room. . . . The Cave has plenty of atmosphere. . . . And it's getting to be necessary to learn the rumba—if you care to dance. . . . This column still favors the operation of at least one spot where the customers could rely on a promise that never a bar of tango music would accompany the usual "never a cover," "never a minimum charge."

THERE WILL BE BOTH COVERS and minimum charges this New Year's Eve, of course. And many of the nightclub operators are thinking back to the New Year's Eve of 1938-39. . . . That was the time when $7.50 was the required minimum for a seat at a table in many of the major spots. . . . They didn't sell out, it is true. . . . But things were not booming that year.

RUTH GORDON
Celebrates Her 25th Year As An Actress

RUTH GORDON, the pride of Wellston, will observe her 25th anniversary as an actress Saturday. Ruth is starring in "Here Today," in Chicago, and an indication of Jed Harris' interest in Miss Gordon as "America's leading actress" may be had from reports that the theater's "boy wonder" of a generation ago, is in Chicago helping Ruth and the play achieve perfection.

Hollywood Today

SHE GOES GARBO
ONE BETTER

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18.—If there is more of a romance in Hollywood than Garbo it's Elizabeth Bergner, who is never seen anywhere and who apparently has few friends. For some time the German actress has been living quietly with her husband, Paul Csonosy. The first news I've heard about them is that Miss Bergner is planning to do "That Was No Lady" for United Artists, release with her husband directing on an old contract.

It's a serious, frothy story, an adaptation of a woman's place in the business world. I'll bet with it, her and she told me that plans were not yet set, but she hoped to make a picture in America soon.

IN FAIRNESS to Ginger Rogers I want to say when she put herself up her dark hair doesn't detract in the least from her personality. I thought she never looked better than she did in "Kitty Foyle" and her clothes were far better than most of her previous pictures, but what really counts is the splendid performance she gave as Kitty Foyle.

I have never been an admirer of Ginger Rogers and have always felt she was over-rated, but I am eating my words now for no actress could surpass the performance she gave and she is on the screen every minute for she tells the story. What a tremendous success as well for Director Sam Woods, who seems to bring out something in the Rogers girl that has been missing all these years.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Mary Rogers, Will's girl, is sick in the hospital with pneumonia poisoning; that was John Kramer with Ginger Rogers at the Brown Derby last night before the preview; Dorothy Lamour slipped in the train at the "Kitty Foyle" preview and hurt her back—so severely she was X-rayed today.

The reason that Franchot Tone has been sitting in a ring is he sent three nights in a row at the Elmerine Garbo's Barbara Moffett—one of N. T. G's entertainers who is pictured in one of the magazines as Miss California Cowboy. Gene Bryan, New York business man, teaming with Arline Judge at the La Conga.

Jimmy Stewart is doing his best to put on weight since he weighs only 143 pounds and is six feet 2 1/2 inches tall, which means he is 12 pounds under weight; just can't keep track of my petter, Brenda Joyce. She was stepping out with Johnny Rogers last night. Apparently she is keeping her word and is not going to marry Owen Ward; simply treating him as a friend.

The Henry Fondas return home today to spend Christmas in Hollywood; Ida Lupino received a record from her father, Stanley Lupin, wishing his family a merry Christmas. It's the first word she has received in months.

THE WAY THE KIDS listen to their radio adventure serials is something—so Universal can rest assured they have a ready-made audience for "Gangbusters," which they bought today. I am really surprised at how seriously the young people take their listeners. Recently Norma Shearer told me that when a little punishment was in order for one of her children she just switched off "The Lone Ranger." I know my young niece never misses these adventure tales and all the children of my friends are equally fascinated with them.

Several months ago M-G-M bought "Gangbusters" but apparently they found they couldn't do anything with the property so they've passed on the rights to "U." Where they go in for million dollar serials in a big way "Raiders of Death Valley," their first big venture, is a big hit, which is the chief reason Nate Blumberg is anxious to get "Gangbusters" started.

JUST BEFORE I went on my personal appearance tour I paid a visit to L. B. Mayer, who told me that John Carroll was the coming male star for 1941. I suspect L. B. knows his movies for he's had more offers for young Carroll than any other actor on his list. He isn't lending him immediately, however, for he has an idea of starring John in a revamp of "Florie of the Plains." That's the play that Elsie Ferguson did in New York many years ago with Edgar Selwyn as her leading man. Selwyn will now direct John and the role, which is half French and half Indian, should be a natural for him.

Army Plane Orders Bogged Since July

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, JR.

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (INS)—Not one of the almost $1,000,000,000 worth of airplanes ordered by the Army under the rearmament program since last July, has yet been delivered, War Department sources disclosed today.

These orders were all placed between July and October, immediately after Congress made the huge defense funds available to the military establishment.

Planes are now being produced and delivered at the rate of several hundred a month, but all of these are types ordered much earlier in the year before the expanded defense program got under way.

Disclosed for the first time the exact amount of airplane contracts awarded by the War Department in the last six months, officials said that the backlog of airplane completion at the end of these later shops.

It is the work of the Committee on War Relocation, and others in determining speed and more speed in the defense program. Army officials expect that the changes in specifications of the planes should be causing any great delay.

The Army still refused to disclose the exact number of planes ordered from each company, or the exact types of craft each company was making. It did, however, disclose the following figures on plane orders placed between July and October:

Douglas Airplane Co., Santa Monica, Cal., $199,011,913; Curtiss Wright Corp., St. Louis and Buffalo, N. Y., $130,181,173; Boeing Aircraft Corp., Seattle, Wash., $120,461,820; Glenn L. Martin Co., Baltimore, Md., $123,911,326; Consolidated Aircraft Corp., San Diego, $100,661,342; North American Aviation, Inc., Inglewood, Cal., $72,857,049; Republic Aviation Corp., Farmingdale, Long Island, $56,499,924; Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Burbank, Cal., $15,925,237; Vultee Aircraft Inc., Downey, Cal., $36,983,415; Bell Aircraft Corp., Buffalo, $24,858,888; Beech Aircraft Corp., Wichita, Kan., $24,735,101; Fairchild Aircraft Corp., Hagerstown, Md., $24,710,500; Stearman Aircraft Co., Wichita, Kan., $3,978,943; Ryan Aeronautical Corp., San Diego, $7,129,321; and Cessna Aircraft Co., Wichita, Kan., $990,374.

business. We were in an AP car with our own driver. Unable to reach our destination before dark, we had been caught in the blitz.

Gunfire was loud and rapid. Shells were bursting overhead. Naturally, the driver was "stepping on it" to get the trip over.

At an intersection ahead of us, the green traffic light winked out as we approached. The immediate orange came on. It was a toss-up whether to race to beat the red or stop for it. The driver elected to go through. He doesn't know why.

A block away the red light caught us and, as we slowed down to a stop, two screaming bombs came down with that swelling effect which says "I'm coming right at you."

ROAD GONE

My wife slid off the seat and buried her face in the cushion.

I scrunched in the corner to get away from the window glass.

The men in the jumpers ducked.

Whang and crash followed. One of the bombs took away three-quarters of the roadway at the very spot where we should have been waiting for the light to change.

What does one do? One tries to quiet the racing blood, ease the momentarily upset stomach and ease the heart back from the throat. Then one rushes on.

It is a million to one chance, and recall that bombs can come amazingly close without destroying you.

Wurzel and his wife were in the little brick shelter in their garden when a bomb landed only 12 yards away. The whole shelter took a leap and settled back again. Nearby houses, including their own, were damaged. Except for the shock to nerves they were unhurt.

NARROW ESCAPE
Bob Bunnelle and his wife were in their penthouse apartment when three bombs came down.

One exploded at the front door of the apartment house, playing bob with the lobby. One put its crater at the street corner.

The third whistled down right beside their window and exploded under it where they could look down later into the yawning crater. The building trembled and rocked a little but, far above the blasts (ten stories is high in London) they themselves didn't lose a window or suffer a scratch.

This London woman missed death when Nazi air bomb demolished her home. She's assisted by air raid warden.

Tom Yarbrough, of our staff, made the personal acquaintance of a bomb on the street. It fell so close it blew him off his feet and down into a cellarway. He was disheveled and bruised but otherwise unhurt.

Two close friends of mind started from their apartment after a bacelior dinner to have a brandy in a hotel lobby just around the corner. Just before they made the turn, a bomb fell just around the corner. They lost their appetite for brandy and half crawled back home. If the brandy idea had struck them half a minute earlier, it would have been too bad.

There's probably no moral to all this except that, in blitzkrieg as elsewhere, a miss is still as good as a mile.

5 Tankers, Liner Attacked

Shelved its last movement was for London to New Zealand last night.

Seattle after the President had radioed his message of condolence. "I asked some folks up with me, other end in which she asked for information."

Two hours later the 8840-ton Norwegian liner was radioed.

"Attacked by submarine, position 53° 7' north, 18° 11' west, suspicious tanker flying Dutch flag in the vicinity."

ASSISTANCE NEEDED

It was believed the Dalmon might have signed the Penderich, which was last seen at 9:40 a. m.

The Dalmon, a 10,000-ton liner, traded between R. I. and the United States before the war. She was believed to be operating under the flag of the Netherlands.

The ship was about 60 miles from the British passenger liner Western Prince was torpedoed last week.

At 9:58 a. m. the Penderich radioed:

"Lost two lifeboats and have only one left. Need immediate assistance."

LINER OVERDUE

Meanwhile, New York shipping circles said the Belgian liner Ville d'Atlon, formerly a famous army transport Cambrai, was long overdue between New York and Liverpool and presumed lost.

The 7350-ton Hog Island-built boat, which also served the U. S. Lines as the American Traveler, left New York Nov. 15 for Liverpool, Belfast and Glasgow.

The Ville d'Atlon was one of eight ships the U. S. Lines sold to Societe Maritime Anversoise last February after the neutrality act banned American shipping from belligerent waters.

Five of them have been sunk, including the former President Harding.

Britain Bombless For Second Day

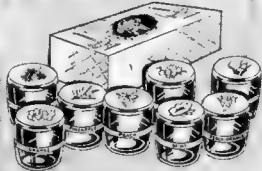

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Officials noted today the record consecutive day in which virtually no bombs have fallen on the United Kingdom.

A communique of the air ministry and the navy of home security said:

"A German bomber was shot down off Dover this afternoon by our fighters without loss to themselves. Otherwise there is nothing to report."

30 THANKS TO LONGSHOREMEN

The Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser today express sincere thanks to members of the International Longshoremen's Association, Locals 799, 800 and 805, and to Steamship Clerks' Union 1066.

Through the unselfishness of members of these unions loading of the cargoes of a CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND was done in record time, with absolute safety and complete efficiency. The movement for a Christmas Ship, filled with clothing and a wear for England's bombed civilians, grew so that it became a Christmas fleet, instead of a single Christmas Ship.

MOVE 1100 CASES

These longshoremen, directed by George McMullen and Daniel Souza moved more than 1100 cases from dockades into the holds of the craft scheduled to go overseas. The clerks who did the shoving of this large number of gifts were directed by William J. Higgins and Edward Mackey.

To all the sincere gratitude of Christmas Shop sponsors. Not only did all of the short work on their own free time, which would be categorized as overtime, but they turned over to the British War Relief Society the money they had earned. Theirs was a manifold gift, of time, labor and cash.

MUST BE DELAYED

It is impossible to disclose at this time what ships are carrying the Christmas cargoes and thus be delayed until after the ship arrives safely on the other side of the water.

Obviously any news of departure would be an invitation to submarines, raiders and planes to attack them. As soon as a safe period has elapsed, the Record-American hopes to announce further news to the thousands of generous New Englanders who made A CHRIST-

MASS SHIP FOR ENGLAND an outstanding success.

Man, 87, Shows Ca bby $1000, No w in Hospital

It was just an ordinary trip for Albert Ekehoney, South End land-cab operator, when an aged man told him to drive to a bank today, but after his fare appeared with $1000, Ekehoney decided to leave the $1000 at City Hospital for "spending money" for his sick wife.

There, the passenger said his name was Thomas P. Barsante, 87, of Danvers south pl., South End, and that he was planning to leave the $1000 at City Hospital for "spending money" for his sick wife.

Police found that Barsante did have a wife, Ella, 77, on the danger list at the hospital, suffering from pneumonia.

But her devoted Barsante might be ill himself if and after Dr. Joseph W. Devine, who called the aged man was sent to Boston State Hospital for observation.

The money is in safekeeping until further reports are made. Ekehoney is the same taxi-cab operator who found $74 in his cab and returned it to a Mansfield woman.

Argument Enlivens Roxbury Court Session

Spectators at Roxbury court traffic session today heard an argument between Portsmouth John J. "Tiger" Young of Division 9 and Atty. Morris Shultz, about Mattapan.

Shultz, defending himself against a charge of failing to show his automobile at an inspection, had a chance to plead guilty but would take it. He was fined $5 and appealed.

"This man said he was going to teach me a lesson for stopping him, your honor," Patrolman Young testified. "He told me I was only a public servant and ought to be out capturing burglars instead of halting autos."

'Con Men' Suspects Arrested in Roxbury

Special officers made two arrests at Roxbury today, claiming they had a pair of confidence men who were using gangs in telephone booths in addition to other activities.

One, it was alleged, had shown away an envelope containing alleged credentials from a hotel and charitable organization.

The other was charged with telephone company equipment destroyed in any of the stage or card work in Roxbury court pay state booths.

Horse, Truck Tangle; Traffic Also Tangles

It wasn't but anyone would call a major accident because the principals were badly damaged at all, but traffic was tied up for half an hour near the North Station today.

Caught in a traffic jam, a horse-drawn carriage and a truck were stuck in a tangle near the North Station today. The horse, a brown spaniel, was in the middle of the tangle, and the truck, a light-colored sedan, was stuck in the middle of the tangle. The horse and the truck were both badly damaged. The horse was killed and the truck was a total loss. The accident occurred at the intersection of North Street and Broadway.

The horse, owned by Louis Bazo of Hutchings St., Roxbury, was taken to Angell Memorial Hospital to be treated for bruises. The truck, operated by J. P. Sullivan of Worcester, went on its way. Police signed in relief.

'TIN PAN ALLEY' HELD OVER ANOTHER WEEK AT MET

Alice Faye, Clark Gable Head Cast

"Tin Pan Alley," which has been singing a merry tune at the Metropolitan box office the past week, is holding over a second week by popular demand.

Its stars Alice Faye, Betty Grable, Jack Oakie and John Payne, contribute some rib-tickling entertainment in this latest 20th Century-Fox musical film.

Oakie is particularly outstanding as an ex-vaudevilian who teams up with the serious-minded, handsome John Payne in the song-publishing business. Oakie's hilarious good humor comes across 100 per cent and is largely responsible for making "Tin Pan Alley" the first-rate entertainment it is.

Teaming Grable with Faye was another smart idea, for these two double the picture's S. A. content. And if you skipped all the rest of it, the film is worthwhile because it takes you down memory lane, musically speaking, giving you "Goodbye Broadway, Hello France," "Moonlight Bay," "K-k-k-katy," "Honeysuckle Rose," "Sheik of Araby," and "America I Love You."

As a musical dividend, Mark Gordon and Harry Warren give you their new number, "You Say the Sweetest Things, Baby."

Allen Jenkins, as a dead-pan janitor turned top-segment, Esther Bialost, Mollie Linder and Elisha Cook, Jr., tuff in swell performances.

Also holding over is the second feature, "Murder Over New York," with Sidney Toler again doubling as the infatigable Chin.

New Musical Opens Christmas Night

Betti Keane and Harriet Clark are additions to Kurt Kasznar's "Crazy With the Heat," the new musical opening at the Shubert on Christmas night.

Don Harold has contributed a sketch to the show.

ALICE FAYE and John Payne from a scene in "Tin Pan Alley," which is held over for a second week at the Met.

Blackfriars Play Ready

The Blackfriars' Guild production, "Song Out of Sorrow," first work of a Boston College student, Felix Doherty, which was given its first presentation Monday night at the Peabody Playhouse, will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

Robert Speaight, gifted English actor, stars in the production in the role of the great English poet Francis Thompson, who is here known for his magnificent "The Hound of Heaven."

George Raft to Make Boston Personal Appearance Dec. 25

Hollywood's personable patent-leather haired personality, George Raft, in a spectacular stage revue, is due for a personal appearance on the RKO Boston stage Christmas Day.

Raft, last seen here on the screen with Ann Sheridan in "They Drive By Night," has been in the East between picture commitments. At the urging of Division Manager Harry McDonald, he agreed to the RKO Boston personal appearance Christmas week.

The Raft engagement will be for the entire week, commencing Christmas Day.

Play's the Thing For This Lady

"Life With Father" is the perfect antidote to a long day of Christmas shopping, according to the testimony of many in the audience at the Civic Repertory Theatre these festive evenings.

"I thought I couldn't sit up another minute after fighting the crowds in the shops all day," a frail little old lady confided to the manager of the theatre.

"But the one thing my daughter wanted to do while she was in Boston—we're from Portland you know—was to see the show, and I didn't have the heart to disappoint her, though my feet and my back ached terribly when I came."

"But now"—and now was the second intermission—"I feel all pepped up and rested. I don't know when I've had a better time. You people must feel wonderful, knowing that your show gives us all such a happy evening."

At this point the theatre manager's professional manner with the customers melted away, and he too, gave confidential information the anonymous lady that not only the management, but the actors also felt the glow she described.

On many occasions both Dorothy Gish and Louis Calhern, leading players in "Life With Father," have described the play as the answer to an actor's prayer.

"An actress can spend a whole lifetime waiting," says Miss Gish, "for a chance to really entertain people and make them happy, and when it comes, as it has come to us in 'Life With Father,' we certainly appreciate the opportunity."

'Christmas In July' On Olympia Screen

Dick Powell and Ellen Drew are co-starring in Preston Sturges' new romantic comedy "Christmas In July," the new attraction at the Washington St. Olympia starting today and continuing through Friday.

The co-feature, "Cherokee Strip," stars Richard Dix and Florence Rice.

Auto Gossip

By OTTO SCOOP

George Gale, well-known auto man for many years, has been appointed to the new position of sales manager at Cypress Motors in Brookline. We feel certain that he has the well wish of all his many friends.

Elmer Wadsworth, president of the Million Rotary Club, has a splendid organization. Last meeting attracted a 100 per cent attendance. If you are a hunting enthusiast, we know that you will thrill to the story of how E. E. Wadsworth, of the Community Pontiac, sold a deer.

A new member of the sales staff at Commonwealth Chevrolet is that man of many sales, George McGrath. . . . Peter Roper, sales manager at Coudage Corner Chevrolet, is bending his efforts in an attempt to boost his firm's sales to a new peak this coming year.

Ben Dixon, wholesale salesman now with Broadway Chevrolet, Somerville, has been going like a house afire of late.

Maiden Auto Exchange has opened a used car annex on Exchange St. Maiden, Sidney Gluck is in full charge.

George Ebdon, Cambridge, De Soto-Plymouth dealer, has placed a mistake on the desk of Secretary Helen Levine.

Jack Bell, of Belmont, is redecorating with Christmas spirit. . . . Hunter Dion has joined the sales force of Hosmer Motor Sales, Melrose.

For the second consecutive year, Knox Bros., Somerville Dodge Plymouth dealers, have received the 100 per cent service award.

Deane C. Frank, Jr., of the Dodge Division of the Chrysler Corp., . . . Barney Brehm, lubrication specialist at Harvard Auto (Ford), Cambridge, has increased his business considerably since the installation of their latest modern Lincoln System Lubrication.

Harold Moye, Pres. of Moye Chevrolet, Newton Corner, is more than pleased with the fine response to "Open House." Both used and new cars are doing very well.

Jim Grant, sales manager of Mt. Auburn Motors, Watertown Chevrolet Dealers has surrounded himself with fine salesmen. That's proof of a good executive. . . . E. C. Hayward of Hayward Motors is one of the busiest men we've seen. He is always on the go. . . . One of the first of the auto contingent to go to Florida is Sam Stenberg of Stenberg Motors who will probably rest this while lying under the palms.

A very good reason for the sales success of Barnett Olds is the able activity of one Bob Cohn. . . . Warren Illey is very proud of his two new salesmen at Woodward Chevrolet, namely Victor Patten and Archie Boden. . . . Frank Driscoll, super salesman at Cote Motors, E. C. Hayward in Mattapan has HAYWARD MOTORS in a very dramatic story to tell about his dead storage garage.

FRED HERMAN, Ford Motors, Inc., modern Lincoln System Lubrication.

UNTIL YOU READ THIS TABLE

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.41 a month

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $100 at 10 percent interest at rates substantially lower than bank rates. If you can't repay in monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100. You can repay it in 12 months with $6.41 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for two years will also repay $100.

See the sample loans and compare them with the rates of other lenders. If you are not satisfied, you can get your money back. If you are satisfied, you can get your money back. If you are satisfied, you can get your money back.

and 25¢ per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law and is the same to everyone.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds, no property, no title, no note. No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workmen to sign the papers with you.

Chinese Send F. D. Peace Painting Of 100 Doves

CHUNGKING, Dec. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt soon will receive a painting by the noted Chinese artist, Chang Shu-Ching, entitled "Doves of Peace" and depicting 100 doves in various forms and colors. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek inscribed on the painting the Chinese characters for "Justice and Peace."

Gridiron's Grisly List, Football Takes the Rap

EXAMINATION OF FOOTBALL'S record of martyrdom this autumn reveals that the people who are keeping the macabre count are stuffing the polls with fatalities which have no more to do with football than your octogenarian aunt tripping over the family puppy.

For example in the current, but uncompleted roll culled by this investigator from the random newspaper obits, we find the following:

1—Henry Kirk, age 13, St. Mary's, Okla., from head injuries received when he ran into a passing motor during a street "touch" football game.

2—Fernald Gelferman, 16, Fort Worth, Tex., from fractured skull during a locker room scuffle.

3—Steven Nangaroni, 17, St. Louis, Mo., from septic poisoning incurred from neglected abrasion of knee during practice.

4—Norman Rozansky, 12, Shamokin, Pa., from a broken appendix following a school game.

5—Leonard Rielly, 15, Atlanta, Ga., from heart attack during sandlot game.

These of course are regrettable happenings! But they are not, per se, football accidents for which the game can be justly reproached. Kirk died because of failure of the town authorities to provide proper playing facilities and thereby obliging the kids to find fun on traffic-infested streets. Gelferman might have broken his skull scuffling in his own cellar. Nangaroni's life could have been saved by prompt medical treatment. Rozansky and Rielly might have expired from their incipient ailments while lying in bed.

THE BULK OF YOUTHS KILLED in football games are sandlot youngsters, improperly trained and lacking in technical or medical supervision. One of these was a 13-year-old boy named Julius Flayderman of Chicago, and another Walter Clegborn of St. Joseph, Mo., injured in backyard games and, through neglect, allowed to develop blood poisoning and a brain hemorrhage. Roger Reardon, a lad of 7, from Regina, Wis., developed peritonitis from being kicked in the groin.

These are melancholy mishaps, though probably as unavoidable as preventing squirming, wriggling boyhood from falling off hen house roofs. For I have often watched little tads brawl and tussle over a rag filled football—millions do it every fall. And though, mostly, their tackling is of the thistledown, haystack type, now and then a steel-shod boot swings awkwardly or a boulder, half hidden in the grass, cracks a small head.

But in high school and college, where there is supposed to be adequate direction, some of the deaths listed should have been avoided. One died from swallowing his tongue, Melvin Coburne of Fork Rivers, Ala. That's an unusual, but not entirely rare, happening and I remember Dr. Eddie O'Brien, the Boston referee surgeon, prying open a kid's clenched teeth with the tip of his whistle and reaching down his throat to release the inverted tongue-plug that was purpling his face. Another boy, Francis Davis of Fork River (Idaho) High incurred gangrene from a fracture of a leg bone. Prompt attention would have saved his life.

I have heard school coaches repeatedly warn their athletes to report promptly any injury, even minor scratches, and just as often have seen kids, painfully hurt, hide their wounds in the false notion that it betrayed easiness to ask relief. Even in high pigskin circles that mistaken illusion exists and I recall in the recent Navy-Notre Dame game, hearing an ND tackle snarl at his trainer, "If you take me out I'll break your jaw," although at the time the husky boy was foggy with a concussion. He went out!

THE REST OF THE HETEROGENEOUS COLLECTION of 1940 football deaths are four playground and club players who died from head injuries, most of them specified "while tackling," and one (Tony Cutts of Brooklyn) who wore no helmet at all, which prompted a civic ordinance at Yonkers where the accident happened, that any football player who did not wear a helmet would henceforth be barred from the game.

But that, in my opinion, isn't the answer. Three others this year have received their fatal head-hurts while wearing protective bonnets and, before the returns are in, sad to think, others may have been likewise injured.

The trouble with the so-called defensive armor, including the unyielding coal-scuttle helmet and the thigh, knee, and shoulder sheathing—hard as man hole covers—is that one-half of the armament is necessary to offset the other half. The standard equipment of a school and college man-at-arms today calls for two rigid, papier-mache thigh plates, a foot in length and moulded to conform with the upper leg muscles, and a set of sole-leather shoulder cups, joined front and back by leather yokes. These are to protect the areas of impact.

And so the tackler offends the ball carrier's hardware by wearing crash-proof head pots to absorb the shock of head on impact. What happens? It doesn't work in favor of the helmet because the jolt of smashing into armored thighs, knees and shoulders at top speed penetrates the headguard or jams the neck bones—as happened some years

BOSTON HAILS EAGLES IN SO. STATION RALLY

An All-America sendoff for an All-America football team was in the making this chill afternoon as Boston folk forget Christmas shopping and everything else to steam up a record-breaking rally at South Station.

The reason was the departure of the unbeaten Boston College football force for Bay St. Louis, La., where the Eagles will prepare for the national title battle with Tennessee on New Year's Day in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl.

The time was exactly 5:35 p. m., with departure moved ahead five minutes from the original 6 o'clock hour to enable the caravan to leave in its own five-car special train instead of tying on to one of the regular trains.

RALLY ON COMMON

A huge throng was certain to see the Eagles off, and proceedings were to be broadcast for those unable to attend.

Head Coach Frank Leahy, his aides, and some 41 B. C. gridmen were in the party listed to leave Boston today and before they rolled out of the South Station they were due to be on the catching end of

Curley's Mother Critically Ill, Son Stays Home

Critical illness of his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Curley, will prevent John F. Curley of Boston College from accompanying the Eagle football squad late this afternoon when it leaves for New Orleans.

Mrs. Curley, who is 87, was reported in very weak condition today at her son's home in Waban Hill rd., Newton. She suffered a fractured skull on Sunday in a fall.

the noisiest grid-rally sendoff in history.

The B. C. student body started the ball rolling this afternoon when they headed for Parkman Bandstand on Boston Common to hold a preliminary rally. Then, 200 strong, and led by the college band, they paraded a parade through downtown streets to the South station.

There thousands of real and Sox, Theta alumni, old and young, city and State notables and just plain sports fans were to join in the presentation of an ear-splitting celebration.

Mayor Tobin was scheduled to address the throng, briefly. He will see the Sugar Bowl classic, but can't leave Boston until next week.

TWO-HOUR WORKOUT

Coach Leahy, still bothered by a very bad head cold which tagged him for two full weeks, the assistant coaches, Ed McKeever, Johnny Druze, Joe McArdle and Tom Powers were to be hailed at the rally.

There was little doubt that those now veteran rally speakers—

Bruins at Peak in Ending Leafs' Streak

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 18, 1940

Unleashing their most devastating exhibition of the year, the Bruins hit their peak at the Garden to ruthlessly smash the eight game winning streak of the Toronto Maple Leafs with a well earned 5 to 2 victory.

At no time this year were the Bruins as impressive as they were last night in completely outplaying the Leafs, leading Leafs before a happy gathering of 11,000, the largest crowd to see the Bruins in action this year.

Prior to this affair, the invaders had raced through 13 games in 15 games and were never really outplayed until the Bruins hit a new high in scoring five goals against the huddling of Connie Smythe.

EVEN ROSS SATISFIED

The Bruins were so outstanding that even Uncle Art Ross stamped approval after the game, saying:

"Tonight the Bruins were the team I've claimed them to be all season. They just kept missing in one way or another but they finally got together in this game, and the result proves my contention."

And there is no questioning the statement of Art Ross. His Bruins were terrific. Cowboy Bill Cowley, who is leading the N. H. L. in scoring, picked up three points with a pair of goals and an assist to bring his total to 20 and put him four points ahead of his closest competitors.

For the first time the Bruins had to wait until the last period to slam home three goals and clinch the game. There was never any doubt as to the result. The Bruins were really flying. They forced the Leafs to play the way and completely outplayed the battered Leafs who were playing their fourth game in six nights.

TAYLOR GOAT

It was Billy Taylor who was directly involved in the first two goals. The Leafs' center, in trying to clear a Cowley shot early in the first period, deflected the puck right into his own net and Cowley was given full credit for a 1-0 lead.

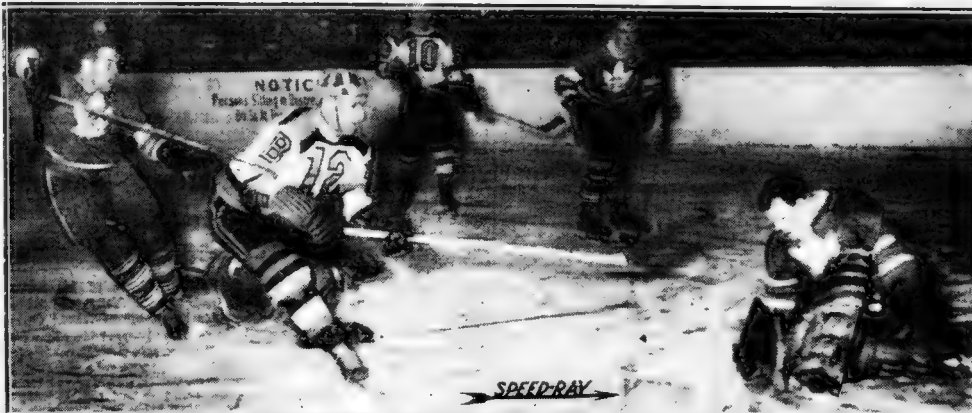

Taylor came back in the second period to win the puck over on a brilliant solo effort that started back to his own goal. He came down the right line, crossed over, went around the Bruins' defense and fired home a neat back hand effort at 4:40.

That was the last time the Leafs were close.

The Bruins started pressing and kept attacking so well under the puck was bound to come. It happened at 11:07. Bill Cowley tried to shoot off balance after having taken a pass from Johnny Shewchuk. The attempt fell short and Broda came out to clear which he did nicely to his right. Before Turk could get back into his cage, though Ray Conacher came swooping down on the puck and drove it right into the upper right hand corner which was wide open.

BRUINS GET HOT

Scoring then subsided until the final period was past the five minute mark. The Bruins suddenly became "hot" and in less than BRODA GAIN—Johnny Shewchuk penetrates Leafs' defense but Goalie Broda is equal to the task and save.

STOPPED—Flash Hollett (No. 2) Bruins' handy man, eludes the Leafs defense and has Goalie Broda at his mercy, only to have the Leafs' guardian make a sensational save. The Bruins weren't to be denied, for they belied the Leafs, 5 to 2, to end the visitors' winning streak.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS:
Boston vs. Toronto
Americans vs. Detroit

seven minutes ring the bell three times.

The first of this trio was a beautifully executed play. Bill Cowley stole the puck from Flash Hollett and broke away fast. Eddie Westman was right with Bill and Cowley fed him the puck just over the blue line. Westman was hauled but saw Jackson coming up behind and back passed to Art. Jackson kept things rolling by nudging the puck right in front of Cowley who came down the middle to beat Broda at 5:50.

The Leafs snipped into action with Bobby Bauer carrying all the action and then passing to Woody Dumart, who came flying down the left line to hit the shutes at 9:20. A wall mooter for good measure. Eddie Westman got a rebound on a bulls eye after Broda had made a great save of Johnny Shewchuk's shot. But Cowley also came in for a bit of play in the 12:15 and is a pass to Shewchuk.

That ended the Bruin scoring. The Leafs picked up a score at 11:33 but it meant nothing. Hank Halup got the credit with a neat shot under after Pete Lavallee's 1-4-4 shot set the play up.

ODD SHOTS

The Bruins came out of the game with one casualty—Ray Conacher. After a bad bruise to the right knee in the second period, he collided with the first post and, as he tried to start the third period, he gave up for good. The injury is nothing serious.

Art Jackson took Conacher's job and Flash Hollett moved into the third line. Terry Reardon centered the third line and made a great hit with the fans for his aggressive play—he looks like a real runner, according to Art Ross. The play was rough all the way, but the only penalty called was a minor against Alex Chismor for interfering with Ray Conacher.

No Decision Reached On Sale of Bees

The financial condition of the Bruins was thoroughly sound, according to a statement issued today by Charles F. Adams, majority owner of the National League baseball club.

There was no final decision has been reached in negotiations, the statement said, further conferences with Albert H. Powell of New Haven, prospective buyer of the team, may be held "provided counsel can agree upon the technical questions involved."

Taylor Packs Tack; Heads for Florida

44 EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 18, 1940

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Dec. 18 (AP)—Jockey W. L. Taylor was packing his tack here this morning before leaving for Florida to report to Fred Wyse, the Texan who holds his contract, on Friday.

Taylor, trailing J.-key Earl Dew in the national riding race, was thrown from his mount here yesterday and escaped with a mud bath, a slightly bruised knee and shock. He cancelled his mounts for the day but had planned to resume riding today.

However, he received orders from Wyse, who already is at Tropical. In a letter Wyse explained that inasmuch as Dew was to ride in Florida, he wanted his boy there. Taylor rode 20 winners here in 11 days to lead the riding field.

Taylor made the rounds of the plant this morning and thanked everyone in sight for kind treatment accorded him here and stated he enjoyed riding at Charles Town as much as at any track.

Apprentice Jockey Donald J. Driscoll of Pembroke, Mass., underwent an appendectomy at Charles Town Hospital yesterday and thus lost his chance of finding the way to the winner's circle during the current meeting, according to the Associated Press. Driscoll, under contract to D. J. Sullivan of San Antonio, Tex., has not ridden a winner, but is considered a promising young rider. He is a brother to the former rider, Danny Driscoll.

Halegh's winter horse colony already numbers more than 1000 with several shipments due soon. The track can accommodate 1250 horses, and it is expected that every stall will be filled during the winter months. Several big shipments are expected from Columbia, S. C. Trainer George Odum is reported shipping 28 head from there; Max Hirsch, 15, and Earl Sande and Jack Healey, 12 each.

Charles Town racing fans are becoming critics of jockey work, even when the favorites win. Rocco Siso was booed by yesterday's crowd after he brought in C. Lorenz's Corcora third in the featured Aviation Stakes. Siso rushed the fully into a ten-length lead, and she stopped to the walk in the stretch. Then the even-money favorite, County Cork, from Mrs. W. Robinson's stable, came on to win his second race of the meeting, with Raymond Smart's Cotillon in second place. County Cork and Cotillon always were well placed, and the winner ran the mile and a sixteenth over a heavy track in 2:01.

It Baron's Specify, who has made two attempts to win the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, is back at the California track for another effort to duplicate the 1936 victory of his stablemate, Top Row. Specify's best performance in the handicap was fourth in 1939. Baron's string also includes two home-bred yearling fillies and four older horses.

C. S. Fleischmann, who has a few horses at Charles Town in charge of Tommy Bonham, announced yesterday his string would be sent to Cuba for winter races. Fleischmann planned to return to New York today.

8 Vermont Clubs File Entries In Hearst Shoot

Rifle shooters in the state of Vermont jumped to life with a vengeance during the past few days as some eight teams filed entry in the William Randolph Hearst Citizen's Marksmanship Competition.

Two full leagues entered the competition, with more promised. The entry for the Vermont Rifle League was forwarded by Louis C. Taft, acting secretary, of Barre, Vt. This is an experienced league of strong teams, with many capable shooters in the ranks.

The other league was filed by Fred P. Hesel of the Mt. Ascutt Rifle Club of Manchester, Vt., one of the member teams in this league being set up for the Hearst Competition. The other member teams are: American Legion Rifle and Pistol Club of Springfield, Morrisville Rifle and Pistol Club of Morrisville and the Northfield Rifle and Pistol Club of Northfield.

The Springfield Club is newly organized on Oct. 30 of this year. It is an American Legion team with Post Commander C. F. Sanacon of Springfield as president. Its range is in the Town Hall. The team has several experienced shooters including Kadel, Davis and Hill Horrick.

The Morrisville Club has only 10 members, but all are real marks men. Paul C. Neuland of Morrisville is president of the club which boasts its own range which is now undergoing several fine improvements.

Luisetti's 20 Points Fails to Stop Indians

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18 (AP)—Angelo (Hank) Luisetti scored 20 points last night but he couldn't stop his alma mater, Stanford, from beating his Olympic Club basketball team, 52 to 48.

Luisetti, graduated three years ago as Stanford's greatest basketball player, recently was reinstated by the Amateur Athletic Union. His motion picture exploits had made him a professional.

Baseball Will Miss Colorful Moriarty

DETROIT, Dec. 18 (AP)—Shed patches with several Chicago a tear for baseball's old school of White Sox players at Cleveland. He rough and tumble. One of its last survivors has departed from the field of action.

Big, belligerent George Moriarty, veteran umpire and former player, has been placed on the public relations personnel of the American League, and a million fans must be sad.

Wherever the impetuous Irishman worked as arbiter, there were possibilities of an exciting side attraction to the game. Moriarty was Moriarty; he was boss, and he stood only for so much. Off the field, he was soft-spoken and gentle in manner, but nevertheless he figured in some of baseball's historic battles.

Before he became an umpire, Moriarty played third base for the Detroit Tigers—on the same team with Ty Cobb—and his top attribute was a fighting spirit.

In a 1909 game, Moriarty stole home with two out in the ninth to win for Detroit, and that feat, one of many, made him famous.

William J. Cameron, now a motion picture company official, was then a newspaperman.

Inspired by Moriarty's play, Cameron wrote an editorial, "Don't Die on Third," which ultimately saw print all over the land and was read as a lesson for young and old.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

BOXERS APPEARING in feature bouts in Boston and in other large cities should have a doctor in their corners.

If Al McCoy had the services of a doctor as well as those of his seconds at the Garden when he fought Joe Louis, he would have been able to get treatment for the eye to prevent it from closing like a drum.

Joe Louis says his title is worth $1,000,000 and yet he entered the ring with only the services of Trainer Jack Blackburn, Manager Julian Black and Matty Seaman. If Louis had suffered an eye injury similar to that experienced by McCoy, he would probably have been beaten, which would have meant the loss of his million dollar title.

Professional boxers rely too much upon handlers who have not the necessary medical skill to care for other than ordinary injuries.

There have been numerous cases in local rings where preliminary boxers who have received cuts have not been properly treated. Doctors say that unless a cut is on the inside of the mouth, it can usually be cared for so that the bleeding will quickly stop.

A boxer then has a chance to win, and he is not bothered by loss of blood. The spectators certainly do not enjoy the spectacle of a boxer being punched around the ring, his face a mass of blood, when less than a minute's attention from a competent doctor would be sufficient to avert the danger.

Poor handling almost cost Dempsey title

JACK DEMPSEY almost lost his title to Louis Firpo as a result of poor handling in a crucial moment in the bout.

Dempsey was knocked through the ropes late in the first round, and when he was assisted back into the ring by one of the judges and a sports writer, he was in a dazed condition. The gong then came to Dempsey's assistance.

As Dempsey staggered to his corner, Jack Kearns started rushing up the stairs that led into the ring. In his haste, Kearns dropped a bottle containing smelling salts, and did not have a second bottle in reserve.

The smelling salts were necessary to help revive Dempsey. In his panic, Kearns seized a sponge from a pail, and mopped up what was left of the smelling salts, along with some broken glass and then put the sponge under Dempsey's nose. Fortunately for Kearns, he was able to salvage enough of the smelling salts to clear Dempsey's head.

If Kearns had a competent doctor in his corner with complete medical supplies, Dempsey would have been taken care of without so much unnecessary commotion and without risk of things being done improperly.

Dr. Tommy Richards helped Harvard stars

DR. TOMMY RICHARDS for years was a more important power on the football field than the Harvard coach. He spent his time between the bench and the playing field aiding players on both teams who were hurt, and often taking the Harvard star out of the game because he was not physically fit to continue.

There was the day at Princeton that George Owen had carried the ball to the Tigers' six-yard strip. Dr. Richards noticed Owen was not acting properly and rushed on the field. He found that the Harvard star was partly dazed and he took him out of the game. Dr. Richards later said Owen's health was more important than a Harvard victory.

On another occasion, Dr. Richards was able to fix the trick knee of a Yale player so that he could continue to play against Harvard.

As a result of Dr. Richards' efforts, minor injuries were taken care of immediately and the correct treatment was arranged when there was a major mishap.

Dr. Richards now cares for the Red Sox, and is no longer associated with the Harvard eleven.

When Ray Arcel refused to let McCoy leave his corner, he did so to save the Boston heavyweight from a sure knockout and possible serious injury. With his left eye closed tight, McCoy would have been crushed by Louis' right hand. A doctor in McCoy's corner, however, would have been able to furnish the necessary treatment to prevent the eye from closing.

Boxing has come a long way from the time when seconds used to use dirty towels, often covered with resin, to stop the flow of blood. There are now million dollar buildings in which boxing is featured.

Football, baseball, hockey and other sports have found that competent doctors are as necessary a part of their teams as ace athletes.

At the Eastern finals of the All-America tournament at the Garden on Monday night there will be a competent doctor in the corner of each boxer. He will give any medical assistance necessary, and will be prepared to advise the referee as to whether a boxer is fit to continue.

At the recent New England finals of the All-America tournament, there were two doctors on duty who cared for the boxers from the time they reported to weigh in until the show was over.

Professional boxing shows have one doctor. They should have two with one doctor stationed in each corner.

ROBERT DUELS COX

Yvon Robert, former world's champion, is favored to down Joe Cox when they meet tonight in the main bout of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly show at the Arena. The match is scheduled for best two falls in three.

Robert has met all the topnotchers in the game. He holds a victory over Danno O'Mahony for the title when the big Irish strong boy was champion. After losing the title he remained in retirement for many months but now is moving fast in his comeback.

In the semi-final, Steve Casey of Ireland, another former champion, clashes with a drop kick specialist, Johnny Murphy.

Preliminaries include Rowdy Rudy Dusek vs. Jack Wagner; Tom Rice vs. George Linehan, and Ben Morgan vs. Joe Maynard, rough New Yorker.

The Card:

46 N. E. ALL-AMERICA BOXERS FACE STERN OPPOSITION

By WALTER KILEY

Now that the Louis-McCoy affair has been relegated to memory, the decks are cleared for a show which promises to put on a real delivery action in local, spirited servings — the William Randolph Hearst Eastern All-America amateur boxing championships to be staged at the Boston Garden next Monday night.

Fortunately for the rank and file who dyed-in-the-wool followers of the sport, it doesn't cost much money to see these ambitious All-America simon-purrs, pinching out their little victories. And fans who will flock to the scene won't be expecting the youngsters to show with the perfection of a Dempsey, a Tunney or an Armstrong.

But the gallery knows from long experience with this annual fight carnival that it will get far more than its money's worth in honest and intense effort, in thrills and thrills throughout the evening's entertainment.

THIRTY-TWO BATTLES

There will be 32 ring principals in the Easterns next Monday. It's such amateurs who comprise the lifeline which purrs new blood and vigor into the money brigade each year. Future world champions might well be wearing right boots in Boston.

From New York, Albany and Baltimore come district All-America champions to swap stock in trade with the New England battalions which this year is composed almost entirely of Greater Bostonians.

Every one of the performers who seek Eastern titles had to win his way into Monday's finale by dint of merit. They battled through long hard-fought eliminations in their home cities and only after surviving large, fast fields were they rewarded with a crack at the major Eastern titles.

GREAT FINALS JANUARY 27

Twenty-four bouts make up the card. There will be semi-finals and finals in each of the eight championship divisions—from flyweight to heavyweight.

Each of the eight winners will automatically qualify to represent the East in the National All-America finals to be held at the Garden on Monday, January 27—with the Far West, the Mid-west and the South

LOUIS NEXT—Leo Matricciani, Baltimore heavyweight, who will be seen in action Monday at the Garden in Eastern All-America finals. Joe has cleaned up everybody in his district and figures he's ready for pro ranks. However, Howard Thompson, rigger from Saugus, might step in his way. Thompson is N. E. All-America king, and a very talented one.

LARRY, LARRY!—Charles Pastrana of Baltimore fights in the 160-pound class and figures he, too, is ready for pro ranks. His climb to the top of his district under duress was sensational and he claims he'll stop Larry Pacino, N. E. All-America 160-pound champ, in short order.

offering the competition.

New York concluded its finals only this week. But Albany and Baltimore named their champions weeks ago and the teams shape up as the strongest either has ever seen here. They have been training hard and faithfully ever since an appear to be primed for victory achievements.

Boston's Tony Peppi is outstanding in the flyweight ranks. But he has real opposition coming. Doug McDonald is a rangy Glens Falls kid who comes by his ring talents naturally. His dad is Teddy O'Brien, noted pro some two decades ago. Teddy is said to have inherited his father's two-fisted punching ability and gameness.

ALBANY BOOSTS ROTOLO

Ray Webster, Baltimore's titled flyweight, is said to be one of the top little fellows in South Atlantic Association history—shifty, clever and powerful.

The Albany forces are high on Tom Rotolo of Rome, N. Y., a fast, shifty boxer with a hard right-handed punch. A farmer, Rotolo is hoping to be drawn against Taunton's Francis Leonard, a veteran of All-America contention. Rotolo holds the Adirondack A. A. U. featherweight title.

Baltimore is equally as confident for its Gordon Neal, Maryland's All-America featherweight champion two years running and one of the best bats on the Mason-Tixon team. He won his way to a battle on Baltimore's team a year ago but was unable to make the trip at the last moment.

Once again the 193's shape up as the class where great things are in prospect. Roxbury's Larry Pacino kept things at fever-pitch throughout the New England trials and finals and now Larry is to have a further taste at whirlwind fighting.

CARTER CARRIES PUNCH

Boston fans already knew Joe Carter, 19-year-old Rome, N. Y., CCC youngster. Last year Carter turned in a spectacular performance in the finals of the Easterns at the Garden. The decision, however, went to South Boston's Paul Conley. There were many who felt it could well have gone the other way.

Carter is perhaps the most gifted of the Albany invaders. He can box and Sports Editor Dick Walsh says he packs a terrific wallop.

Figures Give Aggies Edge Over Fordham

DALLAS, Dec. 18 (AP)—Offensively or defensively, running or passing—twirl the statistical chart in any direction and it still gives you Texas A. and M. as the Cotton Bowl football game favorite.

Odds haven't been posted for the Fordham date, but a season has been played and the fearless Aggies get the call on every percent statistic.

Paper edges hold good until just about kickoff time in any game the Aggies learned rather forcefully a couple of weeks back. Texas University proved the underdog could have his day—and a huge one.

FIGURES TELL STORY

But in the absence of something more concrete, and to give the cracker barrel quarterback a little more fodder, here are the Aggies and the Fordhams laid side by side.

GAMES—Texas Aggies, nine; Fordham, eight.

RUNNING—Texas Aggies, 1411 yards; Fordham, 1250 yards.

PASSING—Texas Aggies, attempted 159, completed 75 for 1029 yards; Fordham, attempted 87, completed 31 for 532 yards.

NET GAIN RUNNING AND PASSING—Texas Aggies, 2431 yards; Fordham, 1802 yards.

PUNTING AVERAGE—Texas Aggies, 38.5 yards; Fordham, 35 yards.

DEFENSE AGAINST RUSH-

TICKET SALE

Tickets are now on sale for the Eastern All-America amateur boxing championships to be held at Boston Garden next Monday evening, Dec. 23. Championship teams of New England, New York, Albany and Baltimore will compete. Prices are 55 cents for unreserved seats, $1.10, $1.65 and $2.20 for reserved seats. They may be purchased, or reserved at Boston Garden, CAPITAL 3200 or at Boston Arena, COMMONWEALTH 2940.

ING—Texas Aggies, 446 yards permitted; Fordham, 792 yards permitted.

Broken down and analyzed it isn't so bad that Fordham should cancel out. Not shown in cold statistics are a few little items such as the fact Fordham threw only one pass against Pitt in a game played in an ocean of snowflakes, had only one kick out of 53 blocked in all kinds of dreary weather and compiled that fine defensive record against almost strictly running teams.

Not shown is an intangible something that makes winners of underdogs—spirit.

AGGIES BY 3 TOUCHDOWNS

Advance men for the Fordhams assure Texans that the Rams, waiting impatiently some five years for this post-season glory, are living the Cotton Bowl game. On the other hand, there have been reports that the Aggies are still crestfallen over their Rose Bowl failure.

Each morning for breakfast the Fordhams have their cereal, milk and a square piece of paper. On this paper is a photostatic reprint from a newspaper story. It reads:

"The Texas Aggies are three touchdowns better than Fordham."

Such are the words of a man whose football team played both Fordham and the Aggies this season—Fred Thomson of Arkansas.

The little piece of paper is devoured each morning. That is Coach Jim Crowley's answer to the statistics.

Boston Hails Eagles At So. Station Fete

Charlie "The Chuck" O'Rourke, George Kerr, Henry Toczylowski, Lou Montgomery, Chester Gladchuk et al.—would say a few words, too.

Before the great departure the squad had its final practice at Alumni Field. For 16 seniors it marked the last time they could work at Alumni Field in the role of undergraduate gridders.

Coach Leahy secured permission to have the football players dismissed from classes at 12:35 so that he could get in one more session on the home field. The weather man has been most unkind to the Eagles during the past 10 days. Leahy's practice plans have accordingly been cut to shreds. Since the weather was fine the Boston College boys worked more than an hour today.

BOUDREAU DELAYS
Ordinarily the Boston College player squad would total 42 this evening. It so happens, however, that Wally Boudreau, besides being a fair to middlin' quarterback, is also an important member of the hockey cast.

Coach John "Snooks" Kelley's ice team will play a "crucial" game with Princeton on Saturday night. Boudreau, sophomore member of Kelley's second line, is needed. Wally remains behind to go to Princeton with the hockey squad, then, following the clash of the hockey cast.

with the Tigers, boards the next train for Bay St. Louis, Miss. Thus Boston College will have its 42-man squad available in the Sugar Bowl. As quarterback with that squad, Boudreau is a valuable piece of grid property, in the Notre Dame system which uses a signal caller freely.

The Boston College official party was to consist of the following:

Head Coach Frank Leahy, his assistants, Ed McKeever, Joe McErdie, Johnny Druse, and Tom Powers; Graduate Manager John P. Curry; the Rev. Maurice V. Dulles, S. J., faculty director of athletics; Peter Shannon, assistant graduate manager of athletics; Drs. Ben Godwin and Frank Merrick, team physicians; Larry Kenney, supply manager; Frank Jones, trainer; Tom McDonald, senior manager; Ed McDonald, brother of Tom; and John Pieroni, junior manager, and the following members of the squad.

ENDS—Henry Woronick, Gene Goodenault, Adolph Paszlik, John Joyce, Charles Toole, Don Curran, Alex Lukachik, Terry Georgetown and Ed Zabinski.

TACKLES—John Vaukous, Joe Manzo, Al Morro, Steve Levantini, Tom Mahon, Joe Strumski, Enoch Canale.

GUARDS—George Kerr, Joe Zabalski, Dave White, Tony Tashmar, Frank Galvani, Ed Twaie, Al Fiorentino and Joe Renko.

CENTERS—Chester Gladchuk, Walter Dubinski, Fred Maumet, Tom Moran, QUARTERBACKS—Henry Toczylowski, Justin McGowan and Ralph Nash (Boudreau will join the quarterbacks at Bay St. Louis).

HALFBACKS—Charlie O'Rourke, Mickey Connolly, Bob Dempsey, Teddy Williams, Frank Mazzoni, Lou Montgomery and Carl Lucas.

FULLBACKS—Mike Holovac, Adolph Kienast and Bob Jaoun.

STIFF SCHEDULE TESTS WEYMOUTH

By SAM BROGNA

Weymouth high school's state championship wrestling team opens its stiffest schedule in the history of the school tomorrow, facing Milton Academy on the latter's grounds.

Francis Kelley will be making his debut as coach and, even though it is his first test, feels pretty optimistic that he will have a successful season although not making any promises of repeating, being his opinion on the fact that the three best men from last year's mat team have departed.

When Joe Tucci, Jim Consention and John Vaughn were graduated, Weymouth lost three of its best wrestlers ever to wear its colors.

STERN SCHEDULE

However, this is another year and Coach Kelley has plenty to think of without digging into the past. He has a grueling schedule which is just about double from last year's including matches with Exeter Academy, Andover Academy, Cranston at Rhode Island and finally, the state interscholastic tournament at Tufts College in the spring.

The regular season was supposed to get under way with Roxbury Latin on Jan. 10 but in order to keep Milton Academy on its schedule, was forced to open earlier than ever. Tomorrow was the only date available for the match.

75 CANDIDATES REPORTED

The nine boys who will represent the Maroon against Milton were selected from over 75 candidates who reported a few weeks ago.

For a nucleus, Kelly had four veterans, two that won the state championship, a lad who was undefeated throughout the season but was unable to take part in the state rounds because of illness and the fourth who finished second in the state matches. With this quartet, Coach Kelly has been able to mould a fairly strong contingent.

Gaton Peccoraro as a freshman copied the 115-pound state title; Don Drake, co-vet, won top honors in the 175-pound class. Lewis Lysakowski was the grappler who went undefeated but became ill before the state heats and Art Parnaby, the other co-captain, finished second in the 128-pound division. Lysakowski competed in the 121-pound class.

PARNABY LOST FOR OFFICER

This year, Drake, who was a tackle on the undefeated football team, will participate as a heavy-weight because of the added surplus he's taken on during the past eight months.

Coach Kelley will be without the services of Art Parnaby for th first match. The youthful wrestler was injured in an accident a few weeks ago and hasn't fully recovered but he will be available for the January 10 meet in with Roxbury Latin. In his place, Kelly will use William McNulty.

The other boys who were named to represent their classes in the opening matches were Joe Ouellette, 175; Charles Cullivan, 165; Pat Murphy, 155; Bill Pippi, 145 (known as the watch chain guard on the grid team); John Clark, 135, and Frank Boyle, 110.

The schedule follows:

Britain's Davis Star Killed in Plane Crash

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Dec. 18 (AP)—Ronald A. Shays, 28, member of Britain's Davis Cup tennis team, was killed today in a plane crash just after he had completed his training as a pilot in the Royal Air Force.

Behind the Net

Back in the days of seven-man hockey the Ottawa Silver Seven was on everybody's lips... this brilliant ice crew gained the Stanley Cup three years in a row before they were finally stopped by another great team, Montreal Wanderers... all eyes on the Silver Seven were huge Harvey Pefferd and Art Moore on defense; the Gilmour and Smith brothers, "Rat" Westwick, Pete Green, F. T. Sims, Goalie Billy Hague, and the illustrious Frank M. Gee at center... McGee had only one eye, but the lack of a pair of optics never seemed to bother him, much to the distress of the goalies... Frank scored 18 goals in a Stanley Cup game in 1905.

VOLS PLAN TO STOP EAGLES

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 17 (AP)—Whatever football players do on cold days when there is no practice but plenty of academic examinations is what Tennessee's Sugar Bowl-bound Volunteers did Monday night.

In between the coldest of the brisk breezes that swept the practice field, the men of Major Bob Neyland did a little running, just enough to keep the joints from getting rusty.

The coaches pow-wowed for several hours and it was suspected that Neyland and his aides discussed ways and means of mending Boston College's Eagles once they get together in New Orleans on New Year's Day.

Down at the Stadium managers were getting equipment ready and the Stadium field was covered with a tarpaulin to protect it from freezing.

Some Monday the 35-man squad will get going in earnest, probably scrimmaging Tuesday afternoon and then taking off for the sun-bathed shores of Mississippi's Gulf coast on Christmas Day.

Scituate Gives Eagles' Coach Replica of Bowl

Frank Leahy, head coach of the victorious Boston College Eagles, prized still another trophy today—a beautiful replica of the Sugar Bowl, following a dinner of the Scituate High School football team at Scituate.

The bowl, made by Scituate High School boys, carried an inscription with the scores of B. C.'s 10 victories in the regular 1940 season. And left vacant was space for the score of the B. C.-Tennessee Sugar Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Toastmaster at the dinner was Jack Conway, sports editor of the Boston Evening American, who praised Leahy's prediction that the Eagles would leave the Sugar Bowl victors by a 14 to 6 score.

There was little missing in the gift the high school boys gave Coach Leahy, who attended despite personal illness and illness of one of his children.

Lumps of sugar filled the big bowl to over-brimming and a triumphant set of silver sugar tongs were included.

Presentation of the bowl was made in behalf of the school lads by Bill Grimes of the Boston Evening American sports staff.

RIDING HIGH—Harvard's basketball team is away up in the clouds these days; sporting an undefeated record, but it's no better than its opponent tonight, Northeastern, which also carries an unblemished slate. Here, left to right, Ed Rotschild, Joe Romano, Capt. Franny Simpson and Chris Finegan of the Crimson quint, are reaching for a high at the hoop.

Unbeaten N. U., Harvard Fives Clash Tonight

Northeastern and Harvard will play their annual basketball game this evening at 8:15 in the Harvard indoor athletic building. Both quintets are undefeated and one of the best games of the local season is in prospect. The Harvard and Crimson frosh fives will meet in a preliminary contest.

Coach Jimmy Dunn of the Huskies thinks that he has a team which should go far this season. In its debut Northeastern dribbled the powerful Colby team. Harvard has a record of wins over Brown, M. I. T. and Wesleyan to its credit.

Wes Feder, the Cantab's coach, will start the same team which has performed so well to date, but the Huskies will line up with several new faces in the lineup. Al Parnaby, Hartford star who "baked" up 20 points against Harvard last season, will be at one of the forward posts with Mike Azzano of Chelsea as his running mate. Mike was outstanding in the Huskie's 40-30 win over Colby.

The rest of the Northeastern lineup will have Jim Lawler of Lynn at the pivot position and Wally Sullivan and Hal Maron also of Lynn, will pair at guard.
